Parts Of Montana Disaster Areas

Mercury Far Below Zero In Paralyzed Northwest

By The Associated Press

Unprecedented prewinter cold accompanied by lashing winds paralyzed the Northwest today, dropping temperatures far below zero and turning parts of storm-battered Montana into disaster areas.

Temperatures plunged to 40 below zero in some areas, and the U.S. Weather Bureau said the cold would last at least five more days. One reading Wednesday was —59 atop a mountain 24 miles Northeast of Lewistown, Mont.

The temperature was —10 and colder through most of the northern Plains and the cold weather was accompanied by blizzard conditions across the Dakotas. The arctic air spilled over the mountains into the normally mild Pacific coastal area.

The severe weather had strange and sometimes tragic effects.

Eleven cattle stranded in deep snow at 10,000 feet above sea level west of Creede, Colo., were given tranquilizer shots, lashed securely to a helicopter and carried to lower levels.

In Bloomington, Ill., a 71-year-old woman died Wednesday of carbon monoxide poisoning when furnace fumes were backed into her home by a bird's nest blocking the chimney.

The Weather Bureau said the cold spell — "which has barely begun in the Northwest" will spread into parts of Tennessee and Mississippi by the weekend. A spokesman advised motorists not to travel northwest of Minneapolis.

Wind-whipped snow and plummeting temperatures turned six Montana counties into disaster areas as severe blizzard conditions blasted the eastern third of the state.

Gov. Tim Babcock applied the disaster-area designation to Powder River, Carter, Fallon, Prairie, Rosebud and Custer counties.

December records tumbled in Billings, Dillon, Great Falls, Livingston and Missoula. The temperature was —54 in the tiny community of Summit near the Glacier National Park. Great Falls had —34, Cut Bank —25, and Lewistown —26 Wednesday. Marysville, a mining camp northeest of Helena, reported -40. The -59 reading was taken at an Air Force weather station.

Sheer cold disrupted utility services. A temperature of —27 snapped a natural gas line which burst into flames south of Cody, Wyo., killing one man and severely burning another. Numerous homes were without heat as long as 5 hours.

The Pacific Northwest power system, with an unprecedented 6.2 - million - kilowatt load, suffered many failures because of overdemand.

Snow plows and airplanes were utilized to reach isolated ranchers and cattle. An 88-year-old man died as he attempted to walk through snowdrifts from a stalled truck.

Washington State, experiencing one of its worst cold waves, shivered through record low temperatures. The coldest spot Wednesday night was —19 in Spokane, the lowest ever for December.

Winds measured at 92 miles per hour raked northwestern Washington, driving a 50-foot

Involve Education Institutions; House Members Return

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Democrats miffed over Republican domination of the special session may keep the legislature working through Saturday. Majority leader Robert F. Reckman, R-Hamilton, said that possibility loomed as the House returned today from an eight-day layoff to allow squabbling senators to catch up.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A showdown may come today in the Ohio Senate on three bills involving educational institutions as House members return for their first floor session in eight days.

Expected to come up for a vote in the Senate were measures to create Cleveland State University and Toledo Medical College along with a bill permitting the Board of Regents to construct buildings on and lease land to non-profit and non-tax supported universities.

Those House-approved bills were put over from a spirited Tuesday session among senators involving a partisan dispute over house rules.

Also left hanging was a proposed resolution calling on Congress to seek Constitutional changes involving reapportionment rights of states.

Today's House session, called by Speaker Roger Cloud in the hope the lame duck special session could be wound up this week, will enable members to clear any business sent over

Firemen Discover Remains As Blaze Razes Small Home

EAST PALESTINE — Mrs. Leetha Wilkinson, who retired from teaching last spring after a 40-year career here, apparently died in a fire which swept her small frame home in the western part of the city Wednesday night.

A body believed that of Mrs. Wilkinson, 67, of 198 Edgewood Ave. was found in the kitchen area of the home by firemen after they extinguished the blaze, which began about 8:30 p.m.

The bodies of over 15 cats which she kept as pets were found in cages or lying about the house, either burned or asphyxiated.

Mrs. Wilkinson, longtime sixth grade teacher, retired in April because of ill health. She lived alone.

She had been last seen about 4 p.m. Neighbors saw smoke coming from the four-room, one-story home about 8:30, and summoned Allen White of Columbiana, operator of the nearby Fitzpatrick Industries, from his office across the street.

White broke in the front door and found the interior "like a furnace."

The body was found lying near floor-type gas furnace in the kitchen. The home had no basement. Only the walls remained standing today.

Firemen and Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem, Columbiana County coroner, are continuing an investigation.

Cause of the blaze is not known, firemen reported.

Mrs. Wilkinson was born Oct. 16, 1897, at Forest in Hardin County, a daughter of the late Samuel N. Switzer and Elizabeth B. Switzer.

She had taught school for 44 years, including 40 years in East Palestine, a year in Hardin County and two years at Petersburg near here. She had taught all but three years in the sixth grade here.

Survivors include two brothers, Donald R. Switzer of Forest and Richard Switzer of Cambridge, and a sister, Miss Belva Switzer of Cambridge, a retired Columbiana teacher.

The VanDyke Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Cabinet Turnover Hinted

Director Of CIA May Quit Shortly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strong indications that John A. McCone will resign shortly as director of the Central Intelligence Agency developed today along with a fresh flurry of speculation about Cabinet turnover.

McCone's return to private life would open another high-level post for President Johnson to fill as he begins his new administration. Cyrus R. Vance, deputy secretary of defense, has been mentioned in some government quarters as a possible successor for the CIA post.

Johnson made his first Cabinet choice Wednesday. He announced the resignation of Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and named as his successor John T. Connor, 50, New Jersey drug manufacturer.

The announcement came on the heels of a report that Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon plans to resign within a few months. A Republican but a strong Johnson supporter, Dillon is expected to return to his family's New York investment banking business. In October Johnson asked him to stay on indefinitely; Dillon apparently feels he cannot.

Speculation on Dillon's successor has fixed mainly on Donald C. Cook, head of American Electric Power Service Corp., New York, and a longtime friend and adviser of the President.

Other prospective shifts — confirmed neither by the White House nor by those directly involved — were said to include:

—The departure — also within the next few months — of Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Most frequently mentioned as a possible successor is Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, whose term as governor ends in January.

—The resignation before Jan. 1 of John S. Gleason as veterans administrator. There are recurrent reports he is returning to the First National Bank of Chicago. He was vice president of the bank when he entered the government.

Hodges was the second member of the late President John F. Kennedy's original Cabinet to leave since Johnson assumed the office. He told the President, in a letter of resignation that Johnson accepted with "deep regret," that he is now nearing 67 and had always intended to stay only four years.

The first of Kennedy's team to quit was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, now Democratic senator-elect from New York. The key post has been vacant since midsummer; Johnson reportedly would like to lure back into government his old friend and adviser, Clark Clifford, the Washington attorney who was President Harry S. Truman's special counsel at the White House. Nicholas Katzenbach has been serving as acting attorney general.

Runaway Car Rams Porch; Man, 29, Hurt

Auto Goes 93 Feet On Freeway Berm, Then Strikes Pole

A 29-year-old East Liverpool man was in "fair" condition at City Hospital with a possible back injury suffered early today when his auto ran wild for 195 feet along the eastern end of the Freeway, striking guardrails and a utility pole before coming to a halt against the porch of a W. 3rd St. home, police reported.

Robert Eugene Stacey, 341 Briar Ln., was removed from his wrecked auto and transferred to an ambulance after the spectacular crash at 12:52 a.m. today, officers said. He will face a reckless driving charge when he is released from the hospital.

Patrolman J. A. Walsh, who investigated, said he was unable to get a statement from the injured driver. He based an accident report on evidence found at the scene.

The eastbound 1956 two-door hardtop left the highway and jumped the curb, traveling 57 feet before striking the guardrails, the officers said. The auto then continued 36 feet, glanced off a utility pole and swung out onto the street in a wide arc.

The car traveled 90 more feet before striking the porch at the home of Thomas Mays, 314 W. 3rd St., the officers said. There was damage to the entire right side of the auto.

Two cars were damaged in a mishap at 8:02 p. m. Wednesday on the parking lot of the Loblaw, Inc., market on Bradshaw Ave., officers said.

The collision involved a 1956 sedan driven by William T. Johnson, 34, of 824 Avondale St. and a 1955 sedan operated by

NATO'S Ministers Fail To Solve Nuclear Issue

PARIS (AP) — Ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization failed today to settle their differences on the sharing of nuclear possibility but agreed to keep on studying this complex problem.

The United States and French governments remained divided on this issue. But those same two governments took care to keep in close contact with each other.

The NATO ministers issued a communique at the close of their winter meeting which made this reference to the mixed - manned surface fleet concept:

"Ministers examined the problems confronting the alliance in the field of conventional and nuclear weapons. A thorough exchange of views on these problems took place and will be continued."

That left the whole American concept for bringing the Allies into a closer nuclear partnership subject to further talks and more study.

The NATO ministers agreed to continue seeking ways to ease East - West tensions and bring to realization "the legitimate aspirations of the German people" for reunification.

The reference to the nuclear problem was made in general terms because the ministers realized they could not obtain any concrete commitments for a mixed-manned Polaris-armed surface fleet or any variation of that concept.

The communique also said "the ministers stressed the importance of avoiding dissemination of nuclear weapons."

The Americans regard the fleet idea as one way to achieve this result. The French believe the fleet will have exactly the opposite result.

As the winter ministerial meeting drew to a close, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk prepared to fly back to Washington to report to President Johnson.

American sources said Rusk was quite satisfied with his two long private talks with French President Charles de Gaulle and hoped that the American-French discussions will continue.

The same informants reported general agreement between the United States and France on the need to prevent a spread of nuclear weapons throughout the world.

The nuclear issue dominated the three-day conference of foreign, defense and finance ministers from the NATO countries.

The United States seeks to bring its allies into a multilateral force of surface vessels, with operation of the fleet — but not final control of its nuclear missiles — spread among participants. France is strongly opposed to the force and is going ahead with development of its independent nuclear defense.

France has said, that it is willing to cooperate and coordinate its nuclear force with that of the United States.

Route 7 Project Slated For 1968 At Wellsville

The relocation of Route 7 through Wellsville is slated for 1968, city officials were informed at a meeting Wednesday night with State Highway Department authorities.

Members of City Council, along with Mayor William Daugherty and Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare, met with Division 11 officials from New Philadelphia at City Hall to review plans for the proposal.

Earl W. Nelson, division deputy director, said the money for the project will become available in July 1967, with work slated to begin in the spring the following year.

A consulting engineer has been invited to bid on the preliminary planning for the four-lane highway, which will be the final link to super-roads between East Liverpool and Wellsville and Wellsville and Empire.

Nelson was accompanied by Levi Kimball, assistant division deputy director, and Sherman S. Price, design and planning engineer.

Members of Council attending were Mrs. Mary Rahter, president, Paul Todd, Meryle Kenney, C. W. (Bill) Stoddard, Aguin Bowling, Dwight MacLean and Nunzio S. Lombardozzi. Councilman Walter Henthorne had to work and was unable to attend.

A general discussion on the freeway was held to acquaint members of Council with the background of the project. No conclusions were reached.

Council was told the state will have previous reports brought up to date. This is the reason a consulting engineer is to be employed.

Nelson displayed an aerial photograph of the city and

Midwest Cold Wave To Move Into District

The Tri-State District has kept its collective fingers crossed as a cold wave blasted the Midwest the past few days but the jinx cannot be avoided any longer.

The Ohio weatherman said zero weather is moving into the state and the temperature in the East Liverpool area may drop to 5 to 13 above tonight, accompanied by blustery winds and snow flurries. The cold will continue Friday with flurries.

The temperature drop was to start this afternoon, a frigid end to the balmy mid-40's the district enjoyed Wednesday—and last night. The downtown had a mild 44 6 a.m. today. It will fall into the 30's this afternoon then start tumbling.

Bliss, typically, wasn't talking. But other reports indicated that if Dean Burch resigns or is ousted when the 132 GOP national committeemen meet in Chicago Jan. 22-23, Bliss would be an acceptable replacement.

$140,000 Fund Involved

Directors Of Ware Show Sued Over Group Assets

Two members of the 85-year-old Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers, which sponsored a nationally-known trade show for many years at Pittsburgh, filed suit Wednesday at Pittsburgh, seeking to restrain the Board of Directors from spending more than $140,000 in assets.

The action was filed in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court by G. Donald Agnew, president of Universal Potteries, Inc., of Cambridge, and Charles Ray, president of the former Paden City Pottery Co. at Paden City, W. Va.

The two plaintiffs contend that the directors have violated a resolution adopted at a meeting last February calling for all capital to be retained until the next meeting is held.

The civil action names as defendants executives of nine pottery and glass firms in Southwestern Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia who are directors of the 24-member association.

Named as defendants are four district pottery executives — W. L. Smith, J. D. Thompson, Joseph R. Thompson and David G. Boyce. Other defendants are Robert S. Holt, C. J. Swartling, J. C. Webber Jr., W. Claire Barnett and Ray Haskell.

The Allegheny County Prothonotary's office said there is no indication when the case will be tried, but since an injunction is involved it may be docketed within a comparatively short time.

The last of the traditional Pittsburgh shows was held in 1958 at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel.

For the next four years, East Liverpool district potteries introduced their lines at the then new Atlantic City China & Glass Show.

In 1963, the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers re-established an annual show under the title "National China & Glass Show," but it was held

Nat King Cole Treated For Lung Tumor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nat (King) Cole — one of popular music's greatest stars — is receiving cobalt treatments for a tumor in one lung.

The fact that the 45-year-old singer is seriously ill was disclosed Wednesday by his physicians. They declined to say whether the tumor is malignant.

When Cole was admitted to St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica Dec. 9 his illness was termed a respiratory ailment.

His physicians — Dr. Robert Kositchek and Dr. Elmer Rigby — said Cole would be able to go home in about 10 days: just after Christmas.

They added: "We have also advised Mr. Cole that his professional engagements for the next few months must be canceled to allow time for his full recuperation."

They said "the medical prognosis is optimistic."

The first inkling of Cole's illness came when he was forced to cancel a few remaining days of an engagement at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

Italy Parliament Fails To Elect President

ROME (AP) — The Italian Parliament failed today in a third ballot to elect a new president for Italy. On subsequent ballots only a simple majority is required for election, but no candidate has come close to getting even that.

Christian Democratic candidate Giovanni Leone was high man but steadily lost strength. He dropped from 319 on the first ballot to 304 and then to 298 on the third.

Bliss, typically, wasn't talking. But other reports indicated that if Dean Burch resigns or is ousted when the 132 GOP national committeemen meet in Chicago Jan. 22-23, Bliss would be an acceptable replacement.

"It is his definite policy not to talk about it," Jack Flanagan, Bliss' press aide, said when asked about speculation mentioning Bliss, including a news magazine report that he has agreed to serve.

$140,000 Fund Involved

Directors Of Ware Show Sued Over Group Assets

Two members of the 85-year-old Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers, which sponsored a nationally-known trade show for many years at Pittsburgh, filed suit Wednesday at Pittsburgh, seeking to restrain the Board of Directors from spending more than $140,000 in assets.

The action was filed in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court by G. Donald Agnew, president of Universal Potteries, Inc., of Cambridge, and Charles Ray, president of the former Paden City Pottery Co. at Paden City, W. Va.

The two plaintiffs contend that the directors have violated a resolution adopted at a meeting last February calling for all capital to be retained until the next meeting is held.

The civil action names as defendants executives of nine pottery and glass firms in Southwestern Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia who are directors of the 24-member association.

Named as defendants are four district pottery executives — W. L. Smith, J. D. Thompson, Joseph R. Thompson and David G. Boyce. Other defendants are Robert S. Holt, C. J. Swartling, J. C. Webber Jr., W. Claire Barnett and Ray Haskell.

The Allegheny County Prothonotary's office said there is no indication when the case will be tried, but since an injunction is involved it may be docketed within a comparatively short time.

The last of the traditional Pittsburgh shows was held in 1958 at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel.

For the next four years, East Liverpool district potteries introduced their lines at the then new Atlantic City China & Glass Show.

In 1963, the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers re-established an annual show under the title "National China & Glass Show," but it was held

Nat King Cole Treated For Lung Tumor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nat (King) Cole — one of popular music's greatest stars — is receiving cobalt treatments for a tumor in one lung.

The fact that the 45-year-old singer is seriously ill was disclosed Wednesday by his physicians. They declined to say whether the tumor is malignant.

When Cole was admitted to St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica Dec. 9 his illness was termed a respiratory ailment.

His physicians — Dr. Robert Kositchek and Dr. Elmer Rigby — said Cole would be able to go home in about 10 days: just after Christmas.

They added: "We have also advised Mr. Cole that his professional engagements for the next few months must be canceled to allow time for his full recuperation."

They said "the medical prognosis is optimistic."

The first inkling of Cole's illness came when he was forced to cancel a few remaining days of an engagement at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

Italy Parliament Fails To Elect President

ROME (AP) — The Italian Parliament failed today in a third ballot to elect a new president for Italy. On subsequent ballots only a simple majority is required for election, but no candidate has come close to getting even that.

A two-thirds majority, or 642 votes, was required for election on the first three ballots. The requirement now is 482.

Christian Democratic candidate Giovanni Leone was high man but steadily lost strength. He dropped from 319 on the first ballot to 304 and then to 298 on the third.

Route 7 Project Slated For 1968 At Wellsville

The relocation of Route 7 through Wellsville is slated for 1968, city officials were informed at a meeting Wednesday night with State Highway Department authorities.

Members of City Council, along with Mayor William Daugherty and Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare, met with Division 11 officials from New Philadelphia at City Hall to review plans for the proposal.

Earl W. Nelson, division deputy director, said the money for the project will become available in July 1967, with work slated to begin in the spring the following year.

A consulting engineer has been invited to bid on the preliminary planning for the four-lane highway, which will be the final link to super-roads between East Liverpool and Wellsville and Wellsville and Empire.

Nelson was accompanied by Levi Kimball, assistant division deputy director, and Sherman S. Price, design and planning engineer.

Members of Council attending were Mrs. Mary Rahter, president, Paul Todd, Meryle Kenney, C. W. (Bill) Stoddard, Aguin Bowling, Dwight MacLean and Nunzio S. Lombardozzi. Councilman Walter Henthorne had to work and was unable to attend.

A general discussion on the freeway was held to acquaint members of Council with the background of the project. No conclusions were reached.

Council was told the state will have previous reports brought up to date. This is the reason a consulting engineer is to be employed.

Santa's Snoopers Busy At Ohio Penitentiary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Santa's snoopers are busy now at the Ohio Penitentiary.

But they're not trying to find out what the 4,500 inmates want for Christmas.

They're making sure that no friends and relatives of prisoners sneak through weapons, narcotics, alcohol or other contraband items.

Only a fraction of the 5,000 to 6,000 Christmas packages contain contraband, Warden Ernest L. Maxwell said, but each box must be carefully checked —just in case.

That takes a detail of seven or eight guards, plus the assistance of about 40 inmates who serve as helpers and clerks.

Out of the hundreds of pounds of Christmas presents which arrive each year, only about 150 pounds of contraband will be impounded.

Banned gifts include such things as steel mirrors—which might be made into knives — and transistor radios — which might be converted for between-cell communications.

Also outlawed are postage stamps and dice, both of which might be used for gambling. The stamps, Warden Maxwell explained, can substitute for cash.

Also barred is tobacco in unsealed packs, which might hide marijuana; jellies and jams, which might conceal narcotics; clothing which doesn't conform to uniform regulations, and all perishable foods, which could pose health problems.

The contraband list naturally includes hair oils and shaving lotions which contain alcohol and might be converted by thirsty inmates into substitutes for the bottled holiday cheer available outside.

Federal Board Reports Good Economic News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Good economic news was reported Wednesday in the fields of industrial production and employment.

The Federal Reserve Board said an upsurge in manufacture of automobiles sparked a sharp recovery in industrial production during November that pushed the board's index to a record level of 134.9.

Strikes in the auto industry during October had played a considerable role in dropping the production index from 134.0 in September to 131.7 in October. The index uses 100 for the 1957-59 average.

The return to work of auto workers boosted non-farm employment to a record level of 59.3 million in November, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The department had reported previously that the unemployment rate for November was 5 per cent, down from 5.2 per cent in October.

William H. Godel, 43, former deputy director for management of the Advance Research Projects Agency, who was removed from his job Aug. 24, and John A. Wylie, 57, former head of the Budget and Finance branch in the Pentagon's administrative office. Acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said $12,000 of the stolen funds has been recovered.

Keith Kirbaugh, 32, of Hammondsville, police said.

Kirbaugh said he was driving past Johnson's car when the local man backed into the Hammondsville auto. Johnson told officers he did not see Kirbaugh's auto.

A mishap on W. 8th St. at the Westgate School Parking Lot at 3:13 p. m. yesterday involved a 1964 sedan driven by Harold B. Robinson, 63, of 127 Carolina Ave., Chester, and a 1961 compact operated by Robert L. Kelly, 27, of Wellsville R.D. 1, police said. There was damage to the left front fender of the Robinson car and the right door and rear panel of the Kelly auto.

Two autos also were damaged in a mishap Wednesday at 11:40 a. m. on W. 6th St., officers said.

The collision involved a 1964 four - door sedan driven by Charles V. Dubois, 68, of 313 W. 6th St. and a 1964 two-door driven by Mrs. Anna Mae Prezzia, 39, of 1240 Parshall St., Wellsville.

Dubois told police he was pulling from a parking spot and another car was halted behind him waiting to take the space. Mrs. Prezzia pulled around the halted car and hit the Dubois auto, he said. Mrs. Prezzia told police she was trying to quiet her two youngsters who were in the front seat of her car.

Ohio Due $1.4 Million In War On Proverty

Congress Has A Clear Right

The U.S. Supreme Court's unanimous ruling that the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act is constitutional will short-circuit plans to nibble the law to death with constitutional duckbites.

This was the immediate stretegy of its opponents in the South. The two cases ruled on originated in Atlanta and Birmingham.

The court's ruling is significant in its unanimity.

The public accommodations section depended heavily on agreement with the legal strategy to base it on the commerce clause of the Constitution, instead of the 14th amendment, though that apparently would have been equally acceptable to the court.

This strategy was ascribed to former U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who thought the commerce clause would be harder for opponents of civil rights legislation to get around than the 14th amendment.

The majority opinion written by Justice Clark contains this statement:

"The power of Congress in this field is broad and sweeping. Where it keeps within its sphere and violates no express constitutional limitation it has been the rule of this court, going back almost to the founding days of the Republic, not to interfere. The Civil Rights Act of 1964, as here applied, we find to be plainly appropriate in the resolution of what the Congress counts to be a national commercial problem of the first magnitude. We find it in no violation of any express limitation of the Constitution and we therefore declare it valid."

'A Good 1965'

With a busy year winding up, officials of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. of America are looking ahead to "a good 1965."

Though present contract negotiations between management and labor cast somewhat of a shadow over the immediate future, the confidence at the Midland Works seems well founded in light of programs recently completed and those in the offing.

As Crucible officials hasten to point out, the margin is narrow between a good and a bad year, competition being what it is. A get-together with these same officials, however, leaves one with the feeling that the Midland Works remains in sound hands and that the quality stainless steel which the company is producing will continue to find the markets that go with a satisfactory financial operation.

Each year-end report meeting, such as that held Tuesday, re-emphasizes the important role that Crucible plays in the district economy — not only in an employment sense but in many other phases of community life.

Luther Hodges Steps Down

The problem of replacing important officials at the top administrative level of government plagued Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower.

It would have bothered President Kennedy, had he lived. It is beginning to add to the worries of President Johnson, his successor. Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges has stepped down. Other Cabinet officers will follow in due time. They will have stayed as long as they are willing.

The problem of recruiting official talent is most acute farther down the administrative line, in sub-Cabinet positions. Hundreds of capable people are needed at this level of administration, where the pay is not too good and responsibilities are out of proportion to official status.

Mr. Johnson is disturbed by the difficulty of finding capable people; he has talked about it in public. Except for John F. Kennedy, whose administration attracted large numbers of young men who never had worked in government before, a chronic shortage of top grade people willing to work in Washington has bothered all recent presidents.

The United States has no established class of civil servants. Government depends on volunteers from business and the professions.

The volunteers often must be pushed into volunteering. They come to Washington for limited terms, usually at a sacrifice. They expect to go home again when they have fulfilled their obligation. They do not think of themselves as professional government officials.

Those waiting to leave always outnumber those waiting to start. Mr. Hodges will be succeeded by John T. Connor, an outstanding business executive.

On The Prowl

A purse-snatching Tuesday points up that danger of this nature will be lurking "around the corner" from now until the first of the year.

The holiday season, with its bustling, happy and always on the move throngs, makes things easier for those on the lookout for easy money.

Keep a tight grip on your purses and wallets. The "snatchers" are on the prowl.

'...And A Time To Speak'

It could be wished devoutly by all who cherish the two-party system that its operation might always be in skilled hands.

The system's value lies in preservation of an opposite view—its credo that in a free country an opposition always has the right to form and be heard.

But the right to do this does not make opposition mandatory. There are times to show opposition and times to show compliance—"a time to keep silence and a time to speak."

A political opposition is always under temptation to oppose for the sake of opposing. It yields to the temptation at its own risk. There is always the danger of seeming to be obstructionist.

This danger is being faced by Republican senators and representatives criticizing President Johnson for choosing to deliver his inaugural address the night of next Jan. 4, instead of during daytime.

This is not a proper occasion for political opposition.

Their criticism makes a bad impression on millions of Americans who would like to hear the President speak. Mr. Johnson's political opponents would be well-advised to hold their fire until they have something worth shooting at.

Silk Shirts

By Truman Twill

One of the numerous jobs I worked at while going to school was salesman in a clothing store.

I think about the job every Christmas, because one of the times I worked in the store was during Christmas shopping season.

I recall clearly the silk shirts in the bottom section of the shirt counter and the standing order from the proprietors to push them if a customer showed interest.

The shirts had been overstocked during World War 1. Though the store was not in a steel town, many residents of the town had gone to work in steel mills.

It was one of the oddities of those frantic days that steel workers earned notoriety for the way they blew their war wages, notably for the way they blew them on gaudy silk shirts at $18 to $24 apiece.

I was too young to think of this as a symptom of something gone awry in the table of values. I have no idea why silk shirts became a status symbol among steel workers. But they were.

And that's why stores like the one I worked for had been caught with top-heavy silk shirt inventories when the war ended and a postwar slump began. Most people forgot the slump and remembered nothing only the boom and the Jazz Age—the Era of Wonderful Nonsense. But the slump was real, too.

There we were, betwixt a postwar bust and a pre-depression boom pushing shoddy silk shirts whenever the situation seemed promising.

We'd have had as much luck, the full-time clerks and I, the Christmas fill-in, pushing Liberty Bonds. The bloom was off the rose.

Even at their best, those shirts had been garish. And now, years later, they were ghastly. Their patterns all ran in the same Christmas - hard - candy patterns — eye-watering colors of poisonous green, dirty red, steel blue, chocolate brown and canary yellow in stripped-candy designs.

On top of their intrinsic ugliness, the material was uninviting. Whatever kind of silk it was never came from contented silk worms. It was as harsh to the touch as the patterns were to the eye.

There never has been anything as ugly made for men as those horrible shirts I remember every Christmas.

They haven't really spoiled anything for me, but I remember them when I go shopping and keep an eye peeled for merchandise that has been around for awhile and is being worked off during the Christmas shopping rush.

That clothing store is still in business in the same location. I wouldn't be surprised if I dropped in there, opened the sliding doors, reached down to the bottom shelf and came up with one of those silken monstrosities. That's how fast they were moving when I last saw them in the early '20s.

This 'n That

The bicycle is a main means of transportation in many countries. In Denmark, about one of every two persons is a bicycle rider, and Belfast, in Ireland, has more bicycles than automobiles. Bicycles are still very numerous in Bermuda, where private cars were forbidden by law until 1948.

Catsup, or ketchup, was originally "ke-tsiap," a Chinese word meaning pickled fish sauce. The Malay language took the word over as kechup — and Americans later changed its spelling and turned it into a tomato-sauce condiment.

There are, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, more than 250 species of roots, herbs and barks that are valuable in the manufacture of drugs.

Federal Dictatorship In The United States?

A fateful day in history was Dec. 14, 1964. On that date what many historians will describe as a federal dictatorship was established in the United States for the constitutional provision which has declared that the people retain all powers not specifically delegated to the federal government or denied to the states now has been altered. Under the guise of regulating interstate commerce, the federal government may hereafter step in and prescribe whatever restrictions on American life it pleases and the judiciary can call it "the law of the land."

David Lawrence

The decree was handed down by nine men comprising the Supreme Court of the United States. No amendment to the Constitution authorizing such a change had been adopted by the people, and the court's ruling now must be obeyed until such time as the people, by constitutional amendment, may repeal or revise the decree.

The Supreme Court edict puts virtually no limit on what can be called interstate commerce or on the power of Congress to regulate it. The decision not only applies to racial discrimination in restaurants, hotels or other places known as public accommodations, but it also covers almost any act or activity within the states which has hitherto been regarded as subject only to local regulation by the states, counties or cities of the country.

A RESTAURANT owner may think that he can refuse to serve a person who looks to him intoxicated or who is in some other way obnoxious to him or his customers, but, under the new ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, he will have to prove that this was the reason for his discrimination.

It will be very difficult, if not impossible, to set forth persuasively what was really in the mind of the hotel keeper or the restaurant owner. For all practical purposes, it means that not only is racial discrimination of any kind prohibited and under virtually all circumstances, but that the federal government may step in and regulate human behavior inside the states as it never has done before.

There are many businesses which claim to be local in nature. Under the new ruling, however, if they obtain from another state materials, ingredients or products of any kind which have a bearing upon the work in a particular establishment, then they some day may be also adjudged to be engaged in interstate commerce.

THE NEW DECISION is so far-reaching that it may affect employment throughout the country. Up to now, there have been many businesses inside the states which have been considered outside federal jurisdiction. It's doubtful whether any business hereafter will be free from federal regulation of its labor relations and all other phases of its activities.

The net effect is bound to be a feeling of consternation when the public really finds out that the new ruling by the Supreme Court doesn't just cover racial discrimination but establishes the power of the federal government to intrude in almost every activity that has hitherto been called local in character.

The only criterion necessary now to establish what is or is not interstate commerce is whether the goods, materials or equipment or food used in the operation of the local facilities in any way originate or are derived from or have moved in interstate commerce.

Another part of the ruling is based upon the kind of customer who seeks service. If he happens to be traveling and has crossed a state line, the court can rule that he is or has been engaged in interstate commerce and therefore must be given the service for which he applies as a purchaser or as a customer.

IN MANY COUNTRIES where they have an unwritten constitution, changes of such far-reaching significance are adopted by a majority of the parliamentary body.

In the United States which is governed by a written constitution, no constitutional amendment has been enacted endowing the federal government or the courts with any such sweeping power as was asserted in interpreting the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution. The edict of nine men has changed the whole constitutional system overnight.

The people can still adopt an amendment either affirming what has been done by the court or repealing it, but the fact remains that a decision of momentous importance, affecting the constitutional rights of the citizens, has been imposed by a judicial tribunal without submitting the matter to the people to vote on the issue by means of a specific proposal to change the Constitution itself.

It remains to be seen whether this method of governing the United States will be accepted in the long run by the people, and whether they will submit to changes of such a far-reaching character in American life without the usual constitutional processes being observed.

Joe Louis Organizes The Unorganized

By VICTOR RIESEL

Joe Louis, ex-newsboy, ex-iceman, ex-auto worker and ex-world's heavyweight champ, now is a full-time labor leader. For some months he has been president of a catch-all local, organizing the unorganized in the Negro districts of Philadelphia.

Victor Riesel

It's a sign of the times, because Joe's sponsor and mentor is Harlem's William Rowe, former New York deputy police commissioner, who traveled to Scandinavia with his friend, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The ex-boxer's assignment is to unionize the bars first and then "anything else non-union." The potential is vast and Joe's top union chiefs believe the bars are as good a center of operations as any. They're open most of the day and folks drop in to gab and exchange gripes, is how one chap topside in the Louis labor federation put it.

If Louis' push gets rolling there soon will be other locals in the big Negro centers of the big Eastern cities, where the old traditional unions haven't moved.

IT WILL take more than the old glamor and a symbolic pair of gloves for Joe Louis to push through the spark what could be the first wave of Negro unionism in the land. But the 50-year-old ex-champ apparently has some pros with him in the profession which still regards him as an amateur union leader.

His charter was issued by something called the National Organization of Industrial Trade Unions (NOITU), headquartered in Jamaica, Long Island. The NOITU is unaffiliated with any major labor organization, though its leaders are friends of some Teamsters and Joe Louis has been photographed with Jimmy Hoffa.

NOITU, which gave Joe his Local 25 P (for Pennsylvania) is small, but a fascinating part of a virtually unobserved labor development.

It's a confederation of some 19 locals in the metal, machine and textile fields and, according to its leader Louis Lasky, will unionize anything it can that is not unionized. It's concentrated in New York and New Jersey, but has one local Alabama.

IT HAS BEEN operating quietly; so few know much about the organization, though its officials claim some 27,000 members. This figure is expected to jump now that there is experimentation and concentration in the Negro communities.

It reflects considerable talk in Negro circles about launching new unions to compete with the traditional ones which have small Negro membership or which close the doors to colored workers.

Most outspoken on this front has been Jim Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). Three weeks ago he warned unions in the construction field that CORE might soon be moved to launch its own labor organizations if the doors aren't opened wide to skilled Negro workers.

TO INSIDERS this seemed merely a warning, but CORE is moving quickly on the industrial front. In Boston it has organized a pilot craft contractors association of Negro businessmen to help them get construction contracts. This is the first step.

Once they get the work, they could hire Negroes and whites from outside labor if the craft unions refused to send along skilled workers of all races.

If CORE's Boston project is successful, it will be repeated in New York and then in other cities. Jim Farmer has considerable contact in the White House and has not hesitated to protest against failure of either contracts or jobs going to Negroes.

Thus the traditional, overwhelmingly white unions will be caught in a pincer movement. On one side, the urge for a new Negro unionism will pressure the old ones. From the other side will be pressure from the new contractors' associations demanding Negro workers.

IF THE OLD UNIONS don't open their doors and admit Negro applicants, the colored workers will simply organize their own. There will be nothing to stop them.

The White House won't interfere, even if the older unions shout that the new units are really non-union. When questioned the other day, one of President Johnson's top aides said that business and the contractors were not really a problem, but the unions are.

It looks like a showdown, now that the federal government is readying to spend hundreds of millions on construction. It will get more turbulent before it gets quieter.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By George Lichty

"... And don't bring up the subject of something being wrong with the schools, dear! .. It'll only lead to higher taxes!"

Letter To The Editor

I and my wife were recently criticized by the juvenile judge for not sending our children to school in a 60-mile-an-hour speed zone.

I had just got out of the hospital and had to be fed every hour and we have a paralyzed son who requires constant care. I feel when we have problems to cope with of this kind that is enough without my wife having to transport our children to school.

So as a parent in Beaver Local district, I feel we should be returned to the Fairfield - Waterford School District.

Any rural area school can't be run like a big city school. And no qualified teacher would or should expect high wages. They knew their pay was never high when they decided to be a teacher. Of course, $4,800, or about that, is pretty good average for 9 months work. Most parents don't make this for 6 days a week 52 weeks a year.

I feel teachers should be dedicated to their work just as a doctor is. And I feel if they are not they certainly are not doing a very good job as a teacher or an executive of a school.

Education is important, but the children's safety should come first over and above everything else. So if there is no other solution I say go back to the old district where the high school was before and let them supervise our grade school also.

I don't feel things are being run very democratically when we are having a new election before regular election time. This seems more to me like a situation of vote, vote, vote until you get what you want.

People certainly are not in any better financial shape to pay more taxes now than they were a month ago. Money just doesn't multiply that fast.

Kennedy, whose administration attracted large numbers of young men who never had worked in government before, a chronic shortage of top grade people willing to work in Washington has bothered all recent presidents.

The United States has no established class of civil servants. Government depends on volunteers from business and the professions.

The volunteers often must be pushed into volunteering. They come to Washington for limited terms, usually at a sacrifice. They expect to go home again when they have fulfilled their obligation. They do not think of themselves as professional government officials.

Those waiting to leave always outnumber those waiting to start. Mr. Hodges will be succeeded by John T. Connor, an outstanding business executive.

On The Prowl

A purse-snatching Tuesday points up that danger of this nature will be lurking "around the corner" from now until the first of the year.

The holiday season, with its bustling, happy and always on the move throngs, makes things easier for those on the lookout for easy money.

Keep a tight grip on your purses and wallets. The "snatchers" are on the prowl.

'...And A Time To Speak'

It could be wished devoutly by all who cherish the two-party system that its operation might always be in skilled hands.

The system's value lies in preservation of an opposite view—its credo that in a free country an opposition always has the right to form and be heard.

But the right to do this does not make opposition mandatory. There are times to show opposition and times to show compliance—"a time to keep silence and a time to speak."

A political opposition is always under temptation to oppose for the sake of opposing. It yields to the temptation at its own risk. There is always the danger of seeming to be obstructionist.

This danger is being faced by Republican senators and representatives criticizing President Johnson for choosing to deliver his inaugural address the night of next Jan. 4, instead of during daytime.

This is not a proper occasion for political opposition.

Their criticism makes a bad impression on millions of Americans who would like to hear the President speak. Mr. Johnson's political opponents would be well-advised to hold their fire until they have something worth shooting at.

Silk Shirts

By Truman Twill

One of the numerous jobs I worked at while going to school was salesman in a clothing store.

I think about the job every Christmas, because one of the times I worked in the store was during Christmas shopping season.

I recall clearly the silk shirts in the bottom section of the shirt counter and the standing order from the proprietors to push them if a customer showed interest.

The shirts had been overstocked during World War 1. Though the store was not in a steel town, many residents of the town had gone to work in steel mills.

It was one of the oddities of those frantic days that steel workers earned notoriety for the way they blew their war wages, notably for the way they blew them on gaudy silk shirts at $18 to $24 apiece.

I was too young to think of this as a symptom of something gone awry in the table of values. I have no idea why silk shirts became a status symbol among steel workers. But they were.

And that's why stores like the one I worked for had been caught with top-heavy silk shirt inventories when the war ended and a postwar slump began. Most people forgot the slump and remembered nothing only the boom and the Jazz Age—the Era of Wonderful Nonsense. But the slump was real, too.

There we were, betwixt a postwar bust and a pre-depression boom pushing shoddy silk shirts whenever the situation seemed promising.

We'd have had as much luck, the full-time clerks and I, the Christmas fill-in, pushing Liberty Bonds. The bloom was off the rose.

Even at their best, those shirts had been garish. And now, years later, they were ghastly. Their patterns all ran in the same Christmas - hard - candy patterns — eye-watering colors of poisonous green, dirty red, steel blue, chocolate brown and canary yellow in stripped-candy designs.

On top of their intrinsic ugliness, the material was uninviting. Whatever kind of silk it was never came from contented silk worms. It was as harsh to the touch as the patterns were to the eye.

There never has been anything as ugly made for men as those horrible shirts I remember every Christmas.

They haven't really spoiled anything for me, but I remember them when I go shopping and keep an eye peeled for merchandise that has been around for awhile and is being worked off during the Christmas shopping rush.

That clothing store is still in business in the same location. I wouldn't be surprised if I dropped in there, opened the sliding doors, reached down to the bottom shelf and came up with one of those silken monstrosities. That's how fast they were moving when I last saw them in the early '20s.

This 'n That

The bicycle is a main means of transportation in many countries. In Denmark, about one of every two persons is a bicycle rider, and Belfast, in Ireland, has more bicycles than automobiles. Bicycles are still very numerous in Bermuda, where private cars were forbidden by law until 1948.

Catsup, or ketchup, was originally "ketsiap," a Chinese word meaning pickled fish sauce. The Malay language took the word over as kechup — and Americans later changed its spelling and turned it into a tomato-sauce condiment.

There are, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, more than 250 species of roots, herbs and barks that are valuable in the manufacture of drugs.

A "light year" is the distance that light, traveling at a speed of about 186,000 miles a second, will travel in one year.

Federal Dictatorship In The United States?

A fateful day in history was Dec. 14, 1964. On that date what many historians will describe as a federal dictatorship was established in the United States for the constitutional provision which has declared that the people retain all powers not specifically delegated to the federal government or denied to the states now has been altered. Under the guise of regulating interstate commerce, the federal government may hereafter step in and prescribe whatever restrictions on American life it pleases and the judiciary can call it "the law of the land."

David Lawrence

The decree was handed down by nine men comprising the Supreme Court of the United States. No amendment to the Constitution authorizing such a change had been adopted by the people, and the court's ruling now must be obeyed until such time as the people, by constitutional amendment, may repeal or revise the decree.

The Supreme Court edict puts virtually no limit on what can be called interstate commerce or on the power of Congress to regulate it. The decision not only applies to racial discrimination in restaurants, hotels or other places known as public accommodations, but it also covers almost any act or activity within the states which has hitherto been regarded as subject only to local regulation by the states, counties or cities of the country.

A RESTAURANT owner may think that he can refuse to serve a person who looks to him intoxicated or who is in some other way obnoxious to him or his customers, but, under the new ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States, he will have to prove that this was the reason for his discrimination.

It will be very difficult, if not impossible, to set forth persuasively what was really in the mind of the hotel keeper or the restaurant owner. For all practical purposes, it means that not only is racial discrimination of any kind prohibited and under virtually all circumstances, but that the federal government may step in and regulate human behavior inside the states as it never has done before.

There are many businesses which claim to be local in nature. Under the new ruling, however, if they obtain from another state materials, ingredients or products of any kind which have a bearing upon the work in a particular establishment, then they some day may be also adjudged to be engaged in interstate commerce.

THE NEW DECISION is so far-reaching that it may affect employment throughout the country. Up to now, there have been many businesses inside the states which have been considered outside federal jurisdiction. It's doubtful whether any business hereafter will be free from federal regulation of its labor relations and all other phases of its activities.

The net effect is bound to be a feeling of consternation when the public really finds out that the new ruling by the Supreme Court doesn't just cover racial discrimination but establishes the power of the federal government to intrude in almost every activity that has hitherto been called local in character.

The only criterion necessary now to establish what is or is not interstate commerce is whether the goods, materials or equipment or food used in the operation of the local facilities in any way originate or are derived from or have moved in interstate commerce.

Another part of the ruling is based upon the kind of customer who seeks service. If he happens to be traveling and has crossed a state line, the court can rule that he is or has been engaged in interstate commerce and therefore must be given the service for which he applies as a purchaser or as a customer.

IN MANY COUNTRIES where they have an unwritten constitution, changes of such far-reaching significance are adopted by a majority of the parliamentary body.

In the United States which is governed by a written constitution, no constitutional amendment has been enacted endowing the federal government or the courts with any such sweeping power as was asserted in interpreting the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution. The edict of nine men has changed the whole constitutional system overnight.

The people can still adopt an amendment either affirming what has been done by the court or repealing it, but the fact remains that a decision of momentous importance, affecting the constitutional rights of the citizens, has been imposed by a judicial tribunal without submitting the matter to the people to vote on the issue by means of a specific proposal to change the Constitution itself.

It remains to be seen whether this method of governing the United States will be accepted in the long run by the people, and whether they will submit to changes of such a far-reaching character in American life without the usual constitutional processes being observed.

'Che Guevara's Reception At The UN Was Tremendous .... Cubans In New York Even Gave Him A One-Gun Salute'

Joe Louis Organizes The Unorganized

By VICTOR RIESEL

Joe Louis, ex-newsboy, ex-iceman, ex-auto worker and ex-world's heavyweight champ, now is a full-time labor leader. For some months he has been president of a catch-all local, organizing the unorganized in the Negro districts of Philadelphia.

Victor Riesel

It's a sign of the times, because Joe's sponsor and mentor is Harlem's William Rowe, former New York deputy police commissioner, who traveled to Scandinavia with his friend, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The ex-boxer's assignment is to unionize the bars first and then "anything else non-union." The potential is vast and Joe's top union chiefs believe the bars are as good a center of operations as any. They're open most of the day and folks drop in to gab and exchange gripes, is how one chap topside in the Louis labor federation put it.

If Louis' push gets rolling there soon will be other locals in the big Negro centers of the big Eastern cities, where the old traditional unions haven't moved.

IT WILL take more than the old glamor and a symbolic pair of gloves for Joe Louis to push through the spark what could be the first wave of Negro unionism in the land. But the 50-year-old ex-champ apparently has some pros with him in the profession which still regards him as an amateur union leader.

His charter was issued by something called the National Organization of Industrial Trade Unions (NOITU), headquartered in Jamaica, Long Island. The NOITU is unaffiliated with any major labor organization, though its leaders are friends of some Teamsters and Joe Louis has been photographed with Jimmy Hoffa.

NOITU, which gave Joe his Local 25 P (for Pennsylvania) is small, but a fascinating part of a virtually unobserved labor development.

It's a confederation of some 19 locals in the metal, machine and textile fields and, according to its leader Louis Lasky, will unionize anything it can that is not unionized. It's concentrated in New York and New Jersey, but has one local Alabama.

IT HAS BEEN operating quietly; so few know much about the organization, though its officials claim some 27,000 members. This figure is expected to jump now that there is experimentation and concentration in the Negro communities.

It reflects considerable talk in Negro circles about launching new unions to compete with the traditional ones which have small Negro membership or which close the doors to colored workers.

Most outspoken on this front has been Jim Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). Three weeks ago he warned unions in the construction field that CORE might soon be moved to launch its own labor organizations if the doors aren't opened wide to skilled Negro workers.

TO INSIDERS this seemed merely a warning, but CORE is moving quickly on the industrial front. In Boston it has organized a pilot craft contractors association of Negro businessmen to help them get construction contracts. This is the first step.

Once they get the work, they could hire Negroes and whites from outside labor if the craft unions refused to send along skilled workers of all races.

If CORE's Boston project is successful, it will be repeated in New York and then in other cities. Jim Farmer has considerable contact in the White House and has not hesitated to protest against failure of either contracts or jobs going to Negroes.

Thus the traditional, overwhelmingly white unions will be caught in a pincer movement. On one side, the urge for a new Negro unionism will pressure the old ones. From the other side, the urge for a new Negro unionism will pressure the old ones. From the other side will be pressure from the new contractors' associations demanding Negro workers.

IF THE OLD UNIONS don't open their doors and admit Negro applicants, the colored workers will simply organize their own. There will be nothing to stop them.

The White House won't interfere, even if the older unions shout that the new units are really non-union. When questioned the other day, one of President Johnson's top aides said that business and the contractors were not really a problem, but the unions are.

It looks like a showdown, now that the federal government is readying to spend hundreds of millions on construction. It will get more turbulent before it gets quieter.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By George Lichty

"... And don't bring up the subject of something being wrong with the schools, dear! .. It'll only lead to higher taxes!"

Letter To The Editor

I and my wife were recently criticized by the juvenile judge for not sending our children to school in a 60-mile-an-hour speed zone.

I had just got out of the hospital and had to be fed every hour and we have a paralyzed son who requires constant care. I feel when we have problems to cope with of this kind that is enough without my wife having to transport our children to school.

So as a parent in Beaver Local district, I feel we should be returned to the Fairfield - Waterford School District.

Any rural area school can't be run like a big city school. And no qualified teacher would or should expect high wages. They knew their pay was never high when they decided to be a teacher. Of course, $4,800, or about that, is pretty good average for 9 months work. Most parents don't make this for 6 days a week 52 weeks a year.

I feel teachers should be dedicated to their work just as a doctor is. And I feel if they are not they certainly are not doing a very good job as a teacher or an executive of a school.

Education is important, but the children's safety should come first over and above everything else. So if there is no other solution I say go back to the old district where the high school was before and let them supervise our grade school also.

I don't feel things are being run very democratically when we are having a new election before regular election time. This seems more to me like a situation of vote, vote, vote until you get what you want.

People certainly are not in any better financial shape to pay more taxes now than they were a month ago. Money just doesn't multiply that fast.

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD K. DOAN

Another Long Hot Summer

If a sizzler like "Peyton Place" can be made into top-rated TV fare, ABC asked itself, wouldn't a series based on "Long, Hot Summer" probably click?

Richard Doan

The answer, quite obviously, was yes.

And so, not many days from now, an hour-long pilot film of a drama suggested by the hit 1958 movie will go into production at 20th Century Fox — the same Hollywood studio turning out "Peyton Place."

-:-

EDMOND O'BRIEN, the late "Sam Benedict," will have the role of Varner, the Mississippi land owner portrayed by Orson Welles in the movie.

So far, it is just a pilot deal, which means ABC has not made a firm commitment to introduce the program next fall, but Edgar Scherick, the network's programming chief, characterized the property as "one of the fine scripts we have" and spoke of being "very pleased to have" O'Brien for one of the leads.

Scherick insisted that "Long, Hot Summer" would not be a serialization, as "Peyton Place" is, and he discouraged speculation that the proposed series might be in two half hours weekly, as the current show is.

NEVERTHELESS, the network, beyond shadow of doubt, would hope to capitalize another time in the same manner it has on "Peyton Place," which though only "suggested by" the late Grace Metalious' best seller and certainly no straight reading of its torrid passages, goes as far as it can to suggest them.

The formula is working probably beyond ABC's wildest expectations. The latest 30-market Nielsen survey showed the two weekly episodes of "Peyton Place" holding down two of the Top Ten show positions.

Sherick said the proposed TV series would be based on William Faulkner's story, "The Hamlet."

THE NEW YORK Herald Tribune's review of the movie, "Long, Hot Summer," said it was based on several of Faulkner's short stories.

The critic found the film "very tense, but yet humorous . . . with some strong, hard-bitten characterizations, and flashing through it like heat lightning a sexiness that is not tasteless but has almost the dry lightness of the French style."

The TV pilot will be produced by Buck Houghton and directed by Robert Altman.

CONSTANT TV watchers will think during Christmas week that the television season is indeed getting short.

Repeats will be all over the place.

The TV networks apparently have awakened to a device for padding out the first - run schedule.

Christmas week, it seems, is what the trade calls a "black week" in the Nielsen ratings survey book; no ratings are taken. It doesn't matter so much if fewer people look.

Presumably, too, viewing is off during the holidays because people are busy at other things.

Some network spokesmen scoff at these reasons for the repeats, insisting that the reruns generally are of episodes appropriate to the occasion. In some instances they are; in others, patently not.

-:-

ON NBC, Walt Disney's "Wonderful World" on Dec. 27 will be a 1962 program called "Fantasy on Skis," an entertainment claimed to be Christmasy. The "Hazel" show for Christmas week will be one originally shown last March.

CBS has scheduled Christmas week repeats of "The Beverly Hillbillies," "The Dick Van Dyke Show," "The Reporter," "Perry Mason" and "Slattery's People."

At ABC, an "Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" shown in 1956 and again in 1958 is booked for Dec. 23 "for sentimental reasons," a network official said.

On Christmas Eve, last fall's premiere episode of "Bewitched" is expected to be shown as a flashback, with Elizabeth Montgomery and Dick York, in a brief dialogue, recalling that experience.

The Christmas Night "Addams Family" will be a rerun of that series' premiere.

McDonald Makes Proposal

Arbitration Unit's Help Urged In USW Election

PITTSBURGH (AP)—David J. McDonald proposed today that the American Arbitration Association assist in the forthcoming elections of the United Steelworkers Union.

McDonald, USW president, said in a statement:

"It is imperative that the steel union take extraordinary steps to insure that our election results are beyond the question of fairness and honesty."

McDonald, who said he would present the proposal to the union's executive committee, stated he was concerned over litigation arising from the recent election of the International Union of Electrical Workers.

"I have every confidence that my opponent in this election will join me in urging favorable action on this matter," he said. McDonald's opponent is I. W. Abel, USW secretary-treasurer. The million-member union will elect officers for four years Feb. 9.

"I personally have no doubt as to the outcome of this election," McDonald said. "However, if I am to conclude successful negotiations with the steel companies, it is imperative that I have a clear cut mandate from the membership, and not a clouded election issue that will weaken us at the bargaining table."

The USW currently is holding negotiations with the 11 major basic steel firms and has said it will reopen the national contract Jan. 1.

Noting the IUE litigation, McDonald said.

"A federal court order, issued without notice or hearing, has enjoined the completion of the counting of the ballots. Even if this suit should be thrown out, the Labor Department procedures provided under the Landrum-Griffin Act may then be used to contest the results."

He added, "I believe that the steelworkers union can profit from this unfortunate experience."

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD K. DOAN

Another Long Hot Summer

If a sizzler like "Peyton Place" can be made into top-rated TV fare, ABC asked itself, wouldn't a series based on "Long, Hot Summer" probably click?

Richard Doan

The answer, quite obviously, was yes.

And so, not many days from now, an hour-long pilot film of a drama suggested by the hit 1958 movie will go into production at 20th Century Fox — the same Hollywood studio turning out "Peyton Place."

-:-

EDMOND O'BRIEN, the late "Sam Benedict," will have the role of Varner, the Mississippi land owner portrayed by Orson Welles in the movie.

So far, it is just a pilot deal, which means ABC has not made a firm commitment to introduce the program next fall, but Edgar Scherick, the network's programming chief, characterized the property as "one of the fine scripts we have" and spoke of being "very pleased to have" O'Brien for one of the leads.

Scherick insisted that "Long, Hot Summer" would not be a serialization, as "Peyton Place" is, and he discouraged speculation that the proposed series might be in two half hours weekly, as the current show is.

NEVERTHELESS, the network, beyond shadow of doubt, would hope to capitalize another time in the same manner it has on "Peyton Place," which though only "suggested by" the late Grace Metalious' best seller and certainly no straight reading of its torrid passages, goes as far as it can to suggest them.

The formula is working probably beyond ABC's wildest expectations. The latest 30-market Nielsen survey showed the two weekly episodes of "Peyton Place" holding down two of the Top Ten show positions.

Sherick said the proposed TV series would be based on William Faulkner's story, "The Hamlet."

THE NEW YORK Herald Tribune's review of the movie, "Long, Hot Summer," said it was based on several of Faulkner's short stories.

The critic found the film "very tense, but yet humorous . . . with some strong, hard-bitten characterizations, and flashing through it like heat lightning a sexiness that is not tasteless but has almost the dry lightness of the French style."

The TV pilot will be produced by Buck Houghton and directed by Robert Altman.

The Christmas Night "Addams Family" will be a rerun of that series' premiere.

McDonald Makes Proposal

Arbitration Unit's Help Urged In USW Election

PITTSBURGH (AP)—David J. McDonald proposed today that the American Arbitration Association assist in the forthcoming elections of the United Steelworkers Union.

McDonald, USW president, said in a statement:

"It is imperative that the steel union take extraordinary steps to insure that our election results are beyond the question of fairness and honesty."

McDonald, who said he would present the proposal to the union's executive committee, stated he was concerned over litigation arising from the recent election of the International Union of Electrical Workers.

"I have every confidence that my opponent in this election will join me in urging favorable action on this matter," he said. McDonald's opponent is I. W. Abel, USW secretary-treasurer. The million-member union will elect officers for four years Feb. 9.

"I personally have no doubt as to the outcome of this election," McDonald said. "However, if I am to conclude successful negotiations with the steel companies, it is imperative that I have a clear cut mandate from the membership, and not a clouded election issue that will weaken us at the bargaining table."

The USW currently is holding negotiations with the 11 major basic steel firms and has said it will reopen the national contract Jan. 1.

Noting the IUE litigation, McDonald said.

"A federal court order, issued without notice or hearing, has enjoined the completion of the counting of the ballots. Even if this suit should be thrown out, the Labor Department procedures provided under the Landrum-Griffin Act may then be used to contest the results."

He added, "I believe that the steelworkers union can profit from this unfortunate experience."

Reservists Can Escape Drills Under New Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 181,600 Army enlisted reservists who, if they wish, can escape regular drills throughout the year under the new plan to merge Reserve units into the National Guard, it was learned today.

These are men who have served from 4 to 10 months on active duty under a special program and have a remaining reserve training obligation of up to 6 years, minus the time they spent on active duty.

Such an out will not be available in the future to young men who sign up in this "reserve enlisted program" as an alternative to being drafted for two years of active service.

The practice has been for them to enlist in either a Reserve or Guard unit, take their 4 to 10 months of basic training, then return to civilian life where they have been obligated to drill weekly and to go to summer training camp for two weeks each year.

The new program announced by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara last weekend gives such enlisted reservists a way of avoiding weekly drills, although some of them would be liable for the yearly two weeks' summer training.

This is because defense officials have decreed that the National Guard, being expanded to a strength of 550,000 with the addition of about 150,000 reservists, shall be an all-volunteer force.

They have said that if a man does not want to accept service in a Guard unit, he could be transferred to a reserve manpower pool.

This pool now totals more than 453,000 officers and men who still have reserve obligations but do not drill and are not assigned to units. In effect, they are names on a list, subject to mobilization in an emergency.

Asked for a formal explanation of the way men in this Army Reserve enlisted group will be affected, the Defense Department said:

"Under the new program they will be offered an opportunity, wherever possible to join a National Guard unit.

"If this is not possible, or if they do not choose to join a Guard unit, they will be assigned to the ready reserve mobilization reinforcement pool.

"Men in the pool will continue to have an obligation for annual military training or mobilization until their respective six-year obligation has been completed."

Kimball said at New Philadelphia this morning that the general location has not changed. This calls for the highway to follow approximately along Buckeye Ave.

There will be some minor revisions and the city probably will have some suggestions to make, Kimball said.

No cost figures were discussed last night and no future dates set for any other meetings, but there will be other sessions, Kimball commented.

When all the reports are brought up to date, further meetings will be held with city officials, he commented.

Council requested the meeting two weeks ago so members could acquaint themselves with the project.

They greeted the highway officials at City Hall at 6 p.m. and had supper at Meade's Restaurant. The closed session followed at City Hall.

Vodrey Asks Courtesy For Yule Traffic

Common courtesy on the part of both motorists and pedestrians can provide the key that will help eliminate time - consuming delays in the heavy holiday traffic in the central business area, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey said today.

One car that is double-parked for only a few moments on a busy street can result in a tie-up that inconveniences dozens of motorists needlessly, the director commented.

Vodrey asked drivers to be careful not to block driveways or park too close to intersections or fire hydrants. Autos also should not be parked in other restricted areas designated by yellow lines, particularly bus stops, he added.

Blocking of bus stops causes more complaints to municipal officials than any other single type of violation, Vodrey commented.

Double - parking probably is the major cause of holiday season traffic jams, Vodrey said. Motorists also should be careful not to park cars so as to block alleys, he added.

City ordinances provide a motorist must park at least 30 feet from the junction with an alley. is a stop sign or traffic signal. Otherwise the car must be halted 20 feet from the intersection with another street or 10 feet from the junction with an alley. Vehicles also must be parked at least 10 feet from a fire hydrant.

Pedestrians should guard against jay - walking, the director said. Persons on foot should yield the right-of-way to motorists when the occasion demands, he added.

"We will do our best to maintain a steady turn - over in parking spots for the convenience of shoppers," the director said. "The number of spaces is limited now, but we hope to have more in the near future."

Midland Girl Chosen For Who's Who Book

Miss Sepos is a member of the Cabinet Staff, the College Band, Modern Foreign Language Club, Genevan (college yearbook) staff and Great Books Discusson Group. She is secretary of the Math Club and co - chairman of the WSA Christmas decoration committee.

House Group Questions Pageant Magazine Poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House committee meets today in an attempt to determine just how a magazine poll rating the five "least effective" members of the House was put together.

Three of the members who made the list including Rep. Wayne L. Hays of the 18th District, have asked for the hearing, which is being conducted by a special committee that investigates election campaign practices and expenditures.

The poll was published by Pageant Magazine in its November issue. It came out about 10 days before the Nov. 3 elections and figured prominently in the campaigns of those named.

Officials of the magazine were invited to appear as witnesses, but declined to accept.

They notified the committee they had not had sufficient time to prepare for the hearing and did not intend to appear. The committee issued subpenas ordering their appearance but was unable to get them served by Wednesday night.

A committee spokesman said investigators had already obtained much of the needed information in previous questioning of the officials.

The three complaining members, Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., Rep. Hays, D-Ohio, and Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., have challenged the statistical validity of the poll.

The magazine said it was based on questionnaires sent to all 435 members of the House and to 220 members of the Washington press corps. Three lists of "least effective members" were published, one said to be based on congressional returns, one on the press returns and composite of both.

Industry Aid Welcomed In Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Johnson administration's war on poverty has welcomed the participation of private industry and invited more.

Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, took the step Wednesday after the White House had released the second major batch of projects in the antipoverty war.

Included in the $82.6-million package was a New Jersey Job Corps training center to be operated by a subsidiary of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. for a possible fee of $540,000.

At a news conference Shriver said, "I hope that a large amount of participation by private industry will develop over the months ahead."

The urban Job Corps training center at Camp Kilmer, N.J., was one of three announced. The two others, at Tongue Point Naval Station, Ore., and Camp Gary, Tex., will be operated by nonprofit organizations.

The White House announcement also contained 18 sites in 15 states for the smaller rural job training centers. They are in addition to 41 sites announced in late November.

In all, antipoverty program officials said, about 150 rural centers to train 100 to 200 youths in basic job skills and rudimentary education are planned. They hope to have about 10 urban area centers, for 1,000 or more youths, in operation by next June.

from the Senate during the lower chamber recess.

Legislative action was completed in the Senate Wednesday on bills increasing the pay of members of the Legislature, county officials, and members of the governor's cabinet.

The legislators' pay will be boosted from $5,000 to $8,000 a year starting with the next regular session Jan. 4.

Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, who unlike 14 of his Senate colleagues will be back for that session, cast the lone dissenting vote on the pay raise bill.

The Senate also gave the green light to a House-approved bill to abolish the State Pardon and Parole Commission and replace it with what sponsors called a streamlined agency to modernize Ohio's parole procedures.

Among other things, the measure will set up a seven-men board of ajudicators to take over the functions of the present, five-man Pardon and Parole Board. Present board members would be elgible to serve on the new panel which will be under Civil Service for the first time.

Also included is a provision affecting prisoners sentenced to life for slaying police officers or prison guards. The minimum time they would have to serve —before becoming eligible for a clemency hearing — would be boosted from 20 to 25 years.

Another provision would alter the law to permit the use of wine at religious services inside penal institutions. At present, the law permits only liquor which is limited strictly for medicinal use.

Otherwise, the key to adjournment rested with the joint conference committee which for over a week now has been trying to resolve Senate-House differences on congressional redistricting.

Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, chairman of the conference group, said members probably would meet again today. Foremost among the areas of disagreement was Richland County and whether to keep it in the 17th District of north-central Ohio or shift it west to the neighboring 8th.

Also included in the legislative pay raise bill was a boost from $7,500 to $10,000 a year for the speaker of the House and the majority leader of the Senate.

Salaries of minority leaders in the two house would be increased from $6,250 to $9,250.

Naturally Worried And Under Stress

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Stanley Cantrell of Lutz, arrived home from a visit to Tampa General Hospital recently and discovered that her pocketbook was missing.

It contained a $250 check issued to "cash."

Quite upset, she called the hospital. She was told that Joe Messina, who operates the concession stand in the lobby, was holding her pocketbook for her.

Joe, who is blind, said the incident was nothing new. He makes it a practice to feel around the counter periodically to see if customers have left anything, and he finds a surprisingly large number of items —eyeglasses, car keys, pipes and wallets.

Joe attributes his customers' forgetfulness to the fact that they are visiting friends or relatives in the hospital and are preoccupied.

Ron Swoboda, a Met outfield prospect, batted only .242 in 22 games with Buffalo last season.

2 Killed, 7 Injured In Two-Car Collision

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two women are dead and seven other persons injured as a result of an automobile collision at a rural intersection south of Columbus.

Killed in the crash late Wednesday were Ruth Hanaway of Rt. 1, Groveport, and Eula Sunderman, 70, of Columbus.

The injured included the driver of the car in which the victims were passengers, Harrison B. Sunderman of Columbus. He was listed in critical condition at a Columbus hospital.

The others injured included two more passengers in the Sunderman auto and four occupants of the second. All were admitted to Columbus hospitals.

The Highway Patrol said the accident occurred at the intersection of Ohio Rts. 665 and 104.

2 Young Boys Soon To Be Carrying Signs

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — Two young boys will soon be seen around town carrying signs reading, "I am sorry I shot out the Christmas lights and I am soliciting money to pay for the damage."

It was either that or be locked up in the Dutchess County jail over the holidays.

The choice was given the boys, not identified because of their ages, when they appeared Tuesday before Judge Thomas Lynch. They chose to solicit donations over the next few weekends to pay for the Christmas lights they destroyed with air rifles on Beacon's main street.

Hal Kolstad, Boston Red Sox pitcher, led the Pacific Coast League in shutouts last season with six.

South Side School Head To Support College Plan

Charles P. Henderson will speak on behalf of Beaver County educators and school directors. Other speakers will include Penn State President Eric Walker, Michael Baker Jr., consulting engineer, and Rep. Robert K. Hamilton of Ambridge, speaker of the assembly.

In his five-minute talk, Henderson will point out the establishment of the branch will complement the established program of Geneva College, and will provide additional educational facilities for the rapidly increasing college-age group in the county.

It will enable many, who otherwise would be financially unable, to continue their education, live at home and attend a state-supported school; provide the same high-caliber instruction available at University Park; permit transfers to the campus or other degree-granting institutions after two years without loss of credit to those pursuing the baccalaureate program, he will point out.

The proposed branch also will provide a two-year associate degree program for draftsmen and technicians needed by present industries in the county, and help attract new industries, Henderson will tell the group.

Emergency Phones Cut Prankster Calls

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The city of Louisville installed phones for emergency police and fire department calls throughout the city.

Officers expected a rash of false alarms but were surprised that prankster calls are practically nonexistent.

Police aim to keep it that way. Every time a receiver is lifted on an emergency phone, police make it routine to dispatch a cruiser to the location of the box.

May Leave Hospital In 2 Weeks

Windsor Making Rapid Progress After Surgery

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Duke of Windsor, operated on for the removal of an arterial blister the size of a large grapefruit, is making rapid progress toward recovery.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, who performed the abdominal surgery, said the former King Edward VIII of England should be on his feet today and out of Methodist Hospital within two weeks.

The duke, 70, relinquished the throne 28 years ago to marry the former Wallace Warfield Simpson of Baltimore.

Within eight hours after his operation Wednesday the duke had chatted with the duchess, teased his nurse and discussed his surgery with Dr. DeBakery.

"The duke tolerated the opdration extremely well," Dr. DeBakey said. "He should be perfectly well."

The doctor explained the operation involved making a seven to eight-inch incision in the abdomen and substituting a synthetic tube for a ballooning blister, or aneurysm, that began developing four years ago on the aorata.

Dr. DeBakey said the blister had grown extensively the past year. It was this growth — "to the size of a small cantaloupe or a large grapefruit" — which prompted the duke's New York physician, Dr. Arthur Antenucci, to order the operation.

Dr. DeBakey was aided by two assistant surgeons, a cardiologist, an anesthesiologist and three nurses.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow in my 60s and I'm going with a widower the same age.

Last Sunday Zeke and I were out for a drive. He suggested going by his home and opening the windows to air the place out. I said, "Fine."

After Zeke opened the windows he sat down on the couch, untied his shoe laces and said, "It's so comfortable here I don't want to move. Why don't you walk home?"

I thought he was joking because we were at least five miles from my house. I laughed and said, "Oh, stop it, Ezekiel." He replied, "I'm not kidding"—and took off his shoes. I said goodbye and left.

If you don't think five miles in Cuban heels is exhausting just try it. I arrived home thoroughly done in and half sick.

Two hours later Zeke showed up at my place—furious. He said he never dreamed I'd be that dumb. I asked why he didn't come after me. He said he was sure I was sitting in his car. When he discovered I wasn't, he couldn't find me.

I'd like your opinion on who is the dumb one?—KALAMAZOO.

Dear Kalamazoo: It sounds like a tie to me. Now that you know what a nutty sense of humor he has—act accordingly.

Weekend Tryst

Dear Ann: Today our son, Charles, and his girl friend drove off for a weekend together. They are both of age and we could do nothing to stop them.

I prayed that the mother of the girl would step in at the last moment but I'm sure now she considers Charles a good catch and is eager for her daughter to snag him.

We have not been domineering parents. Charles was an excellent student, attended church regularly and never gave us any trouble—until this girl came along.

My husband feels we should ask him to pack his bags when he returns. Charles has a fine position and could afford to live elsewhere. I'm reluctant to do this, but my husband says we must protest his immoral behavior. We'd like your views.—D.C.

-:-

Dear D.C.: You say the boy is "of age." Is he, 21 or 35?

An extramarital weekend is out of bounds regardless of age but that's history now. The question is, should you kick him out of the house.

If he's 21—No. If he's 35 he should have been out long ago. Talk to your clergyman.

Spoon Feeding

Dear Ann: Whenever my mother-in-law comes to our house she wants to feed our 18-month-old son. Bobby doesn't like vegetables. My mother-in-law is determined to "teach him" to like them.

She says, "Look, Bobby—Nonna likes carrots." Then she puts a spoonful of carrots into her mouth, using Bobby's spoon. The next spoonful goes into Bobby's mouth — same spoon.

I've asked my husband to speak to his mother about this dirty habit. He says I'm too finicky—that she did the same with her six kids and nobody died.

Am I a crackpot as my husband says? Or should he say something to her?—BATTLING BERTHA.

Dear Bert: Perhaps your mother-in-law's six children survived in spite of an unhygienic upbringing — an amazing number of kids do.

While most children would not die from sharing Granny's spoon, it is nonetheless an unpleasant habit and if your husband refuses to speak to his mother about it you should.

Hand "Nonna" a second spoon when she feeds Bobby and ask her to please use it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Leading U.S. Philosopher And Liberal Educator Dies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The death Wednesday of Alexander Meiklejohn ended the career of one of America's leading philosophers and liberal educators.

Dr. Meiklejohn, 92, was stricken with virus pneumonia three days ago after he had enjoyed one of his walks in the Berkeley Hills.

The former president of Amherst College had lived a life of intellectual turbulence. It brought him fame, honor and difficulties.

In December 1963 he was presented the presidential Medal of Freedom by President Johnson.

A native of England, he came to the United States at the age of 8 when his father, James, established a business in Pawtucket, R.I.

He was graduated from Brown and Cornell universities and in 1897 joined the faculty in Brown's philosophy department. He was named associate professor in 1903 and full professor in 1906. He was serving as dean when he became president of Amherst in 1912.

His innovations at Amherst stirred up such a storm that the trustees asked him to resign in 1923, he had reshaped the curriculum to emphasize social sciences, and put a student board in control of student conduct.

Twelve seniors turned down their diplomas at graduation and eight faculty members quit in protest of the dismissal.

Meiklejohn moved on to the University of Wisconsin where he continued his experimentation as philosophy professor under Dr. Glenn Frank.

From the 1930s on, Dr. Meiklejohn lived in Berkeley.

Surviving are his widow, Nancy, a daughter and three sons.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow in my 60s and I'm going with a widower the same age.

Last Sunday Zeke and I were out for a drive. He suggested going by his home and opening the windows to air the place out. I said, "Fine."

After Zeke opened the windows he sat down on the couch, untied his shoe laces and said, "It's so comfortable here I don't want to move. Why don't you walk home?"

I thought he was joking because we were at least five miles from my house. I laughed and said, "Oh, stop it, Ezekiel." He replied, "I'm not kidding"—and took off his shoes. I said goodbye and left.

If you don't think five miles in Cuban heels is exhausting just try it. I arrived home thoroughly done in and half sick.

Two hours later Zeke showed up at my place—furious. He said he never dreamed I'd be that dumb. I asked why he didn't come after me. He said he was sure I was sitting in his car. When he discovered I wasn't, he couldn't find me.

I'd like your opinion on who is the dumb one?—KALAMAZOO.

Dear Kalamazoo: It sounds like a tie to me. Now that you know what a nutty sense of humor he has—act accordingly.

Weekend Tryst

Dear Ann: Today our son, Charles, and his girl friend drove off for a weekend together. They are both of age and we could do nothing to stop them.

I prayed that the mother of the girl would step in at the last moment but I'm sure now she considers Charles a good catch and is eager for her daughter to snag him.

We have not been domineering parents. Charles was an excellent student, attended church regularly and never gave us any trouble—until this girl came along.

My husband feels we should ask him to pack his bags when he returns. Charles has a fine position and could afford to live elsewhere. I'm reluctant to do this, but my husband says we must protest his immoral behavior. We'd like your views.—D.C.

-:-

Dear D.C.: You say the boy is "of age." Is he, 21 or 35?

An extramarital weekend is out of bounds regardless of age but that's history now. The question is, should you kick him out of the house.

If he's 21—No. If he's 35 he should have been out long ago. Talk to your clergyman.

Spoon Feeding

Dear Ann: Whenever my mother-in-law comes to our house she wants to feed our 18-month-old son. Bobby doesn't like vegetables. My mother-in-law is determined to "teach him" to like them.

She says, "Look, Bobby—Nonna likes carrots." Then she puts a spoonful of carrots into her mouth, using Bobby's spoon. The next spoonful goes into Bobby's mouth — same spoon.

I've asked my husband to speak to his mother about this dirty habit. He says I'm too finicky—that she did the same with her six kids and nobody died.

Am I a crackpot as my husband says? Or should he say something to her?—BATTLING BERTHA.

Discuss 'Internal Friction'

Big Three Of Republican Presidential Drive Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Big Three of the 1964 Republican presidential campaign huddled overnight at the hilltop home of Sen. Barry Goldwater discussing "a little internal friction in the party."

National COP Chairman Dean Burch and New York Rep. William E. Miller, Goldwater's running mate in the November election, flew into Phoenix Wednesday and planned to leave today.

They remained well out of reach at the Goldwater home overlooking Phoenix. A guard at the gate turned away newsmen.

It was Burch who said the meeting was to discuss the "internal friction" issue and also his future as party chairman. "It's hard to have any kind of discussions without going into that," the Tucson, Ariz., attorney said.

He said he expects to remain chairman after a meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago Jan. 22-23, but he would not estimate how many votes of confidence he can count on. He termed this "useless speculation."

Another known topic of discussion was a letter Goldwater sent out asking some members of the National Committee to give their views on mistakes made during the past presidential campaign.

The letter, labeled private and confidential, sought off-the-record advice on how to hold the "hard core" of voters who backed Goldwater and yet bring more into the GOP fold.

The Arizona senator is working on a paper analyzing mistakes made in the campaign and suggesting corrections. Goldwater indicated he intends to present his findings to the National Committee meeting in Chicago.

"Our problem, as I see it," Goldwater wrote, "is to retain that hard core and add to it by enticing back into the party those Republicans who did not vote for the ticket, who did not vote at all, or who voted for the opposition."

Discuss 'Internal Friction'

Big Three Of Republican Presidential Drive Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Big Three of the 1964 Republican presidential campaign huddled overnight at the hilltop home of Sen. Barry Goldwater discussing "a little internal friction in the party."

National COP Chairman Dean Burch and New York Rep. William E. Miller, Goldwater's running mate in the November election, flew into Phoenix Wednesday and planned to leave today.

They remained well out of reach at the Goldwater home overlooking Phoenix. A guard at the gate turned away newsmen.

It was Burch who said the meeting was to discuss the "internal friction" issue and also his future as party chairman. "It's hard to have any kind of discussions without going into that," the Tucson, Ariz., attorney said.

He said he expects to remain chairman after a meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago Jan. 22-23, but he would not estimate how many votes of confidence he can count on. He termed this "useless speculation."

Another known topic of discussion was a letter Goldwater sent out asking some members of the National Committee to give their views on mistakes made during the past presidential campaign.

The letter, labeled private and confidential, sought off-the-record advice on how to hold the "hard core" of voters who backed Goldwater and yet bring more into the GOP fold.

The Arizona senator is working on a paper analyzing mistakes made in the campaign and suggesting corrections. Goldwater indicated he intends to present his findings to the National Committee meeting in Chicago.

"Our problem, as I see it," Goldwater wrote, "is to retain that hard core and add to it by enticing back into the party those Republicans who did not vote for the ticket, who did not vote at all, or who voted for the opposition."

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

All the creatures in Fairyland are enjoying the Christmas Festival. All except George who knows in his turtle heart that something has happened to the Prince.

CHAPTER 12

The Chipmunk Chatterboxes played on and on. The audience cheered and stamped their feet. Even the Snowman was carried away. He waved his new broom wildly in the air and shouted, "Rickety, Rackety, Cha Cha, Chat!"

Then he remembered himself and turning to George said loyally, "They are good but, of course, you will be much better. There's no doubt about that!"

But the turtle had disappeared. He was making his way through the crowd, stepping carefully through the tangled legs.

Twice he narrowly escaped being smashed by stomping feet and once he was knocked head over tail and landed in a baby pixie's lap. The pixie plopped him down on the ground and went right on clapping her hands to the music.

POOR GEORGE! He longed to join in the stomping and the clapping, because it surely was the finest music he had ever heard. But he had to find the Prince and that was all that mattered now.

He thought sadly of the hundred years he had waited for the Festival and the years he had spent practicing and training his voice. It wasn't so much the prize he wanted — it was the honor and pleasure of singing for Santa Claus.

But he had to find the Prince. "If only the magic shoes would take me back to Santa Land!" he thought. Without them, how else was he to get back and find the Prince?

He pushed through the crowd until he came to the very back of the audience. There was only one pair of legs in front of him. He started to circle the legs and then he stopped and stared open - mouthed at the feet in front of him.

On the feet were two pairs of shoes and the top pair was the pair that Patrick Tweedleknees had given to the Prince to carry him to Fairyland!

George caught his breath. Slowly he raised his head and he saw that Womp, the man witch, was standing in the shoes.

"Where is the Prince?" cried George.

Womp looked down distastefully at the disturbance at his feet. "Ah," he drawled, "It's George, the Singing Turtle!"

"Who are you?" demanded George. "What have you done with the Prince?"

Womp cupped one hand over his ear. "Eh?" he shouted. "I can't hear you!"

—:—

THE CHIPMUNKS had struck up another round and the whole audience of fairies and pixies had joined in the singing. George caught the edge of Womp's cloak in his mouth and nudged the man witch into the woods where it was quieter.

George pulled the manwitch into the woods.

"Now," he said heatedly, "Answer my questions or I--I--"

"You'll do nothing," said Womp, brushing off his cloak, "I am a man witch and I can turn you into turtle stew anytime I wish."

"Wait until Santa hears about this," said George angrily.

"Ha!" laughed Womp. "I will deal with Santa as I have with your Prince whom I have left imprisoned in a magic circle in the forest east of Santa Land. As for Santa--just look!" He pulled his flute from his pocket and waved it in the air. "When I play my special tune on this flute Santa Claus and the whole Fairyland will fall asleep and never wake up!"

George's heart thumped. "I don't believe it," he quavered weakly.

Womp put the flute to his lips. "I could do it now," he said. "But I was hoping to enjoy the Music Festival first."

"Pooh," retorted George desperately. "You do not have the proper nose to play a flute."

"What's the matter with my nose?"

"Let me see it closer," said George slyly.

Womp bent low to the ground. "Closer," said George.

Womp brought his face closer and closer until snap! — the turtle lunged forward and clamped his jaws around the nose of the man witch.

Pay Hikes Set For Judges, County Heads

By W. S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Senate prepared to wrap up a pay increase for judges today after tying the ribbon Wednesday afternoon on a salary package containing $21,150 for Columbiana County Officials.

The county pay bill, which also carries $3,000-a-year raises for state legislators, will be effective when newly-elected officials take office after Dec. 31.

Since most counties elected only two commissioners this year, county treasuries will not feel the full impact of the bill for two years.

In Columbiana County, all officials except commissioners, engineer and coroner will receive $2,100-a-year raises. Commissioners will receive $1,500, the engineer $3,000 and the coroner $1,050 more annually.

New salaries for each official will be:

Commissioner, $8,250; treasurer, $11,100; prosecutor, $10,500; clerk of courts, $11,300; sheriff and recorder, $9,400; auditor, $11,500; engineer, $12,350, and coroner, $5,450.

The judicial salary bill, which passed the House last week, is expected to be approved unchanged in the Senate.

It proposes $3,000-a-year raises for Columbiana County Common Pleas, Probate and Juvenile Judges and carries a $1,500 increase for the municipal judge. City Council would have authority to raise the municipal judge pay to $18,000 a year.

South Side PTA Donates To Fund

A $75 contribution to the Dollars For Scholars Fund drive was approved by the South Side Parent - Teacher Association Monday night at the high school cafeteria at Hookstown.

Mrs. Rita Pursiful, president, conducted business. It was announced registration forms are available for adult education classes to start in January.

The date May 21 has been approved by the Board of Education for the community picnic at Idora Park in Youngstown.

A panel composed of James Ashcroft, the Rev. Robert Van-Wyke of the Hanover United Presbyterian Church, William Falk, William McGaffick and Miss Mildred McDonald reported on questionnaires sent out by the program committee. A discussion was held on the strength and weaknesses of South Side Schools. Lunch was served by the refreshment committee.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 11 in the elementary section of the school. The Executive Board will meet Dec. 30 at the home of the president.

Driver Cited As Bale Falls From His Truck

A bale of straw fell from a truck along Route 30 Wednesday near Lisbon and struck the windshield of another truck, breaking the glass, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

The straw fell from a truck operated by Frank R. Woodruff, 37, of Cannonsburg and hit the windshield of the following truck driven by Paul W. Little, 38, of Leetonia R.D. about three miles east of Lisbon. Woodruff was cited for driving a truck with an insecure load.

Budget Head To Make His Trimmers Trim

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Trying to trim a city budget is tough, but City Comptroller Hyman Pressman also hopes to make his budget trimmers trimmer — through exercise.

Pressman announced Wednesday that the coffee break in his department may soon give way to the biceps break, a daily 10-minute period emphasizing the body in the body politic.

Pressman says he and his office employes will begin their new program with simple exercises at first — twisting, bending and isometrics. Pushups may come later.

County, Townships Share License Funds

Columbiana County's road fund has received $9,917 and the county's 18 townships received a total of $25,116 in the final allocation of license plate revenue, Ohio Highway Safety Director Warren Nelson announced.

In Jefferson County, the county road fund received $17,180 and the townships $13,586. Throughout the state, $2 million went to the counties and $1 million to townships, based on road mileage.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I have three boys, all under three years of age. . . .

Last year when we bought a Christmas tree, I put it inside the playpen. It worked beautifully!

The playpen was placed in a corner of the room and the tree placed in the back corner of the playpen. I bought one box of unbreakable ornaments and placed them on the lower branches just in case. . . .

Then I used my flannelette material on the floor of the playpen. I also placed the gifts inside, so the children could not get to them.

To make the playpen more attractive, I hung the children's little stockings around the rails! The children loved this. I also hung some of the branches which we had taken off the tree on these same rails.

You cannot imagine the look of amazement on every one's face when they came into our living room. . . .

JUDIE DOWNES.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I find hair clips (the kind used for pin curls) indispensable, not only at home, but also while traveling.

I used to carry clothespins when I wanted to wash out a few garments . . . now the clips serve as clothespins, to pin up my hair, and to fasten my sleeveless dresses on hangers.

I also use them during the holiday season when I want to fasten something to a pine Christmas wreath. The clips dip into the pine boughs with ease and are not seen.

J.B.

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps you would like to pass this idea along to the gentlemen:

When they finish washing or bathing, if they will put a little alcohol on a cloth and wipe their necks with it, there will be fewer dark rings on their shirt collars.

MRS. N. GALANTE.

-:-

She is right . . . but why limit this hint to the men? We gals can use this idea also to prevent the lines on our blouse and dress collars.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: To the lady who had trouble with lint on on her son's black slacks . . .

I had same trouble, so I dyed the slacks. All the lint balls got black!

H.R.S.

DEAR HELOISE: I used your nylon net pompons in red and green as favors at a Christmas Club party.

To give them a little added festive color, I gathered small pine cones, sprayed them gold, and tied them to the pompons. Everyone said they were just too pretty to use.

RUBY FRALEY.

-:-

Know what else? You can use white shoe polish to tip the ends of pine cones. Comes out opaque and looks like snow. Try it!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My place mats were very pretty, but every time a drop of tomato sauce or a drop of coffee spilt on them, it took me a long time to scrub them white again.

I put a very decorative adhesive-backed paper on the place mats, cut all around the scallops and now all I have to do is swish a dish cloth or sponge over them and they are clean.

They really look more attractive now than when I bought them.

MRS. SAM HARTMANN.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Introverted Child May Resent New Baby

My readers are familiar with the teen-ager or child from 9 to 12 who may not talk much at home. Often mothers write me about this child. But no one has written before about the tot under four or five who is difficult to communicate with. This letter comes from a New Jersey mother: "We have a very intelligent child who is difficult to communicate with and talks very little even though he has taught himself to read and write at about age two.

Dr. Garry Myers

"I am also a very high-strung person of artistic temperament; my husband is, basically, a tight person. Our other son, 16 months, is very easy-going and has a wonderful nature. The older boy, Tommy, was a very irritable baby, due at least partly to my own experience, but I have tried always to do what's best for the children and have probably tried too hard, of course.

—:—

"BUT I can't understand why it is so difficult to get him to talk or listen. He was also very jealous of the new baby, and actually still is, though they play pretty well now.

"I have enrolled Tommy in an accredited nursery school to learn to play with children his own age and to learn to talk and take orders from the teacher."

My reply in part. Apparently Tommy has no speech difficulty. My guess is that he chooses to talk to you so rarely and freely because he feels that you parents don't care for him as much as you do for the baby and are not as interested in him.

No matter what you parents think, what Tommy believes is so for him. You won't change Tommy's thoughts and feelings by talking to him about the matter; you will have to employ patient effort for weeks and months to build on his best and make him feel more comfortable and worthwhile in your presence. Just because the baby has such "a wonderful nature," while Tommy has been irritable, the baby naturally gets more smiles and endearments from everybody; and the more of such he gets the more irritable and mute Tommy becomes.

EASY TO see that Tommy often gets on your nerves and irritates you. But as he is so bright and can read, see what opportunities you and Dad have to express enthusiasm over his achievements and to listen raptly as he reads.

I hope you and Dad often read to Tommy from materials too hard for him to read. If he makes up some yarns out of his little head, write them down and read them back to him. When, occasionally, he asks a question, patiently and kindly answer him. Talk to him about what you are doing with and for him. Rock and cuddle him if he likes it, or gently pat him and talk tenderly to him.

I hope Dad often goes walking with Tommy alone, makes things with him and has fun with him. After the baby is in bed at night you yourself might spend some time just with Tommy enjoying him.

When relatives and friends come in and incline to be enthusiastic over the baby, turn their attention to some of Tommy's achievements.

Fine you have Tommy in a nursery school.

My bulletins, "Celebrate Your Child's Successes", "The Nervous, Jittery Mother" and "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" may be secured by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Review.

Hints from Heloise

—By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I have three boys, all under three years of age. . . .

Last year when we bought a Christmas tree, I put it inside the playpen. It worked beautifully!

The playpen was placed in a corner of the room and the tree placed in the back corner of the playpen. I bought one box of unbreakable ornaments and placed them on the lower branches just in case. . . .

Then I used my flannelette material on the floor of the playpen. I also placed the gifts inside, so the children could not get to them.

To make the playpen more attractive, I hung the children's little stockings around the rails! The children loved this. I also hung some of the branches which we had taken off the tree on these same rails.

You cannot imagine the look of amazement on every one's face when they came into our living room. . . .

JUDIE DOWNES.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I find hair clips (the kind used for pin curls) indispensable, not only at home, but also while traveling.

I used to carry clothespins when I wanted to wash out a few garments . . . now the clips serve as clothespins, to pin up my hair, and to fasten my sleeveless dresses on hangers.

I also use them during the holiday season when I want to fasten something to a pine Christmas wreath. The clips dip into the pine boughs with ease and are not seen.

J.B.

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps you would like to pass this idea along to the gentlemen:

When they finish washing or bathing, if they will put a little alcohol on a cloth and wipe their necks with it, there will be fewer dark rings on their shirt collars.

MRS. N. GALANTE.

-:-

She is right . . . but why limit this hint to the men? We gals can use this idea also to prevent the lines on our blouse and dress collars.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: To the lady who had trouble with lint on on her son's black slacks . . .

I had same trouble, so I dyed the slacks. All the lint balls got black!

H.R.S.

DEAR HELOISE: I used your nylon net pompons in red and green as favors at a Christmas Club party.

To give them a little added festive color, I gathered small pine cones, sprayed them gold, and tied them to the pompons. Everyone said they were just too pretty to use.

RUBY FRALEY.

-:-

Know what else? You can use white shoe polish to tip the ends of pine cones. Comes out opaque and looks like snow. Try it!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My place mats were very pretty, but every time a drop of tomato sauce or a drop of coffee spilt on them, it took me a long time to scrub them white again.

I put a very decorative adhesive-backed paper on the place mats, cut all around the scallops and now all I have to do is swish a dish cloth or sponge over them and they are clean.

They really look more attractive now than when I bought them.

MRS. SAM HARTMANN.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Introverted Child May Resent New Baby

My readers are familiar with the teen-ager or child from 9 to 12 who may not talk much at home. Often mothers write me about this child. But no one has written before about the tot under four or five who is difficult to communicate with. This letter comes from a New Jersey mother: "We have a very intelligent child who is difficult to communicate with and talks very little even though he has taught himself to read and write at about age two.

Dr. Garry Myers

"I am also a very high-strung person of artistic temperament; my husband is, basically, a tight person. Our other son, 16 months, is very easy-going and has a wonderful nature. The older boy, Tommy, was a very irritable baby, due at least partly to my own experience, but I have tried always to do what's best for the children and have probably tried too hard, of course.

—:—

"BUT I can't understand why it is so difficult to get him to talk or listen. He was also very jealous of the new baby, and actually still is, though they play pretty well now.

"I have enrolled Tommy in an accredited nursery school to learn to play with children his own age and to learn to talk and take orders from the teacher."

My reply in part. Apparently Tommy has no speech difficulty. My guess is that he chooses to talk to you so rarely and freely because he feels that you parents don't care for him as much as you do for the baby and are not as interested in him.

No matter what you parents think, what Tommy believes is so for him. You won't change Tommy's thoughts and feelings by talking to him about the matter; you will have to employ patient effort for weeks and months to build on his best and make him feel more comfortable and worthwhile in your presence. Just because the baby has such "a wonderful nature," while Tommy has been irritable, the baby naturally gets more smiles and endearments from everybody; and the more of such he gets the more irritable and mute Tommy becomes.

EASY TO see that Tommy often gets on your nerves and irritates you. But as he is so bright and can read, see what opportunities you and Dad have to express enthusiasm over his achievements and to listen raptly as he reads.

I hope you and Dad often read to Tommy from materials too hard for him to read. If he makes up some yarns out of his little head, write them down and read them back to him. When, occasionally, he asks a question, patiently and kindly answer him. Talk to him about what you are doing with and for him. Rock and cuddle him if he likes it, or gently pat him and talk tenderly to him.

I hope Dad often goes walking with Tommy alone, makes things with him and has fun with him. After the baby is in bed at night you yourself might spend some time just with Tommy enjoying him.

When relatives and friends come in and incline to be enthusiastic over the baby, turn their attention to some of Tommy's achievements.

Court Gives Chicken Fancier Month To Restrain 25 Fowls

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, admittedly unfamiliar with the habits and peculiarities of chickens, ruled today at the end of a lengthy hearing that a Boring Ln. man will have a little more than a month to provide proper restraint for 25 fowls that provoked the ire of three neighbors.

James Timmons was named in an affidavit signed by Earl Wollam and Anthony Cataldo, both of adjoining N. Shady Ln. Dr., Fisher Park, and Raymond E. Rudibaugh of Boring Ln. He pleaded not guilty.

Following a long hearing in which Timmons acted as his own counsel, Judge Chertoff found him guilty of permitting his chickens to "run at large" on Boring Ln.

Although Timmons asserted his chickens have been confined for about a month, the judge ordered him to make certain adequate restraints are provided and gave him until Jan. 25 to comply. The judge said sentence will be pronounced when Timmons returns to court late next month.

Rudibaugh, first to testify, said Timmons' chickens have caused a problem in the neighborhood for "four or five years." He said he asked Timmons "countless times" to confine the birds but they still run at large.

"He always said he would build a fence, but he never did," Rudibaugh said. "I used to have a garden, but I discontinued it because of the chickens."

Cataldo, a resident of the area about six months, also testified that Timmons' chickens had destroyed his garden. He said Timmons promised to take the chickens to a farm or fence his property but did not.

Wollam added a similar complaint and declared that the chickens are awake "long before daylight and make such a racket a person can't sleep." He said he had chased the birds out of his yard "many times."

Timmons said a Health Board inspector told him he could continue to keep the fowls so long as they are confined. He said the inspector admitted a chicken gets out of a pen occasionally.

"My chickens haven't been loose for a month," he said. "If they saw a chicken loose it must have belonged to someone else."

Timmons termed the chickens "show birds" and said he raises them as a hobby.

Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark commented that perhaps the anti - noise ordinance was being violated.

"You can't tell a chicken not to cackle," the judge replied.

Clark and Timmons engaged in an exchange on how a chicken - grower can tell his own birds from any others.

Then Clark said: "The city is no place for chickens. They should be out in the country where they don't bother anyone."

"The court is very unfamiliar with the habits of chickens," Judge Chertoff commented. But he pointed out that Timmons had admitted that his birds sometimes wander at large.

"They get up early in the morning and no one can stop them," the judge continued. "If these are show birds it would be to your own advantage to keep them confined."

Continuing the case, he told Timmons to "make a special effort to erect a fence there and make sure your chickens are behind it at all times."

Pay Tax Bill Loses Hildebrand Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo-asked bill that would make it easier for cities to increase municipal income taxes beyond one per cent has lost the support of State Rep. Raymond E. Hildebrand, R-Lucas.

Hildebrand said Wednesday night he has withdrawn his backing from the measure because "apparently there is not enough support for it."

"I have not been contacted by anyone who wants to support it," he added. Hildebrand said he expects the measure "to be the only one to die at the current special session."

He said the legislation Toledo sought would have required only a bare majority of votes at any election to enact increases of more than one per cent in a municipal income tax.

In the form it passed the house, the measure would have required a 55 per cent margin at all elections. Present law requires 60 per cent approval at special and primary elections and 55 percent at general elections.

City councils are permitted to enact a levy up to one per cent without voter approval.

Are Women As Good Engineers As Men?

NEW YORK (AP) — Do women make as good engineers as men?

In a survey conducted among 7,000 engineering graduates of Columbia University, about half of those questioned said yes, about half said no.

Those replying in the affirmative said intelligence knows no sex and that ability transcends gender. However, the "no's" said women might do better as engineers if they didn't have primary responsibility for reproduction of the species.

The biggest objection to women engineers was this: although they start out as dedicated career engineers, before long they run afoul of some man (usually another engineer) and from then on this gal's services are usually lost to the engineering profession.

It was reported the special uniform fund now stands at $4,391.

Robert Sprague, director, spoke on instrument needs, and was given permission to purchase a french horn.

A contribution of $25 for the "Dollars for Scholars" drive was authorized.

Mrs. Mary Green of the East Liverpool Garden Club demonstrated Christmas decorations. Seventeen attended.

Hunger Strike Ended By 500 Monks, Nuns

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five hundred Buddhist monks and nuns ended a 24-hour hunger strike today, but Buddhist leaders made plans to keep up their campaign against the government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Reliable sources predicted bigger hunger strikes and street demonstrations.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor scheduled a meeting with Huong to discuss the situation.

The Buddhist drive to topple Huong's regime was credited with causing the resignations Wednesday of Education and Cultural Minister Phan Tan Chuc and Tran Thuc Linh, a deputy chief of the Information Ministry.

Other ministers are known to be wanting to get out of the government, but Huong has asked that they remain until the situation has calmed.

The Buddhists particularly oppose the ministers of information, social welfare and justice.

Buddhist leaders complain that some of Huong's Cabinet members are holdovers from the administration of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, whose regime they helped overthrow in November 1963. Huong so far has rebuffed the Buddhists' attempts to regain a position of political power.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. military forces in South Viet Nam, said in Honolulu Wednesday that the current demonstrations apparently represent a small minority and that they pose no serious threat to Huong's government.

Westmoreland, en route home for the funeral of his father, expressed confidence in Huong's government and said, "We have high hopes that the misunderstanding can soon be resolved."

Levies' Support In Beaver Local Cost Group'$673

The Association for Advancement of Beaver Local Education (ABLE) spent $673 to promote two levies in the school district at the general election Nov. 3, it said today in a sworn statement of expenses filed with the County Election Board.

The report was filed by Roland Marshall, publicity chairman. The school district renewed a 1.6-mill levy but defeated another measure of 5.4 mills.

Galen Greenisen of near Salem, Republican, reported he spent $386 in an unsuccessful bid for a new term as county commissioner. R. Dale Miller of near Lisbon, Republican, listed expenses of $432 in an unsuccessful bid for the county treasurer's post.

The Election Board said only two candidates, both defeated, have not filed the expense statements. The deadline falls Friday at 4 p.m.

Jury Convicts For Burglary

NEW CUMBERLAND — A Circuit Court jury deliberated for only eight minutes before returning a guilty verdict Wednesday against Thomas Riffee, 19, of Weirton, accused of breaking and entering a Weirton home.

Cited in the burglary of the home of Wilmon Culley in 1963, Riffee originally had pleaded guilty and had been sentenced to a year at the state forestry camp.

However, he escaped last summer by stealing his mother's car and money while she was visiting him. He was picked up a few days later in Follansbee.

At a hearing before Judge James G. McClure, the youth admitted that "someone made promises" if he pleaded guilty at the original trial.

After hearing Riffee's story, Judge McClure ordered him to plead innocent, setting the stage for yesterday's brief trial.

Only four witnesses were called. They were Culley, his son, W. Boyd Culley, Det. Sgt. Edward Gialluco of Weirton and Ronald Owings, an accomplice of Riffee who had pleaded guilty and was placed on probation by Judge McClure.

Kent Sole of Weirton was the jury foreman. Other jurors were Alfred Kinney, Max Vidas, Andrew Morgan, Mrs. Grace Arbogast, Mrs. Olive Culp, David Dalton, Othia Gunion, Ray Welshans, Gaile Ankrom, Ralph Rossy and Ralph Powell.

Court Gives Chicken Fancier Month To Restrain 25 Fowls

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, admittedly unfamiliar with the habits and peculiarities of chickens, ruled today at the end of a lengthy hearing that a Boring Ln. man will have a little more than a month to provide proper restraint for 25 fowls that provoked the ire of three neighbors.

James Timmons was named in an affidavit signed by Earl Wollam and Anthony Cataldo, both of adjoining N. Shady Ln. Dr., Fisher Park, and Raymond E. Rudibaugh of Boring Ln. He pleaded not guilty.

Following a long hearing in which Timmons acted as his own counsel, Judge Chertoff found him guilty of permitting his chickens to "run at large" on Boring Ln.

Although Timmons asserted his chickens have been confined for about a month, the judge ordered him to make certain adequate restraints are provided and gave him until Jan. 25 to comply. The judge said sentence will be pronounced when Timmons returns to court late next month.

Rudibaugh, first to testify, said Timmons' chickens have caused a problem in the neighborhood for "four or five years." He said he asked Timmons "countless times" to confine the birds but they still run at large.

"He always said he would build a fence, but he never did," Rudibaugh said. "I used to have a garden, but I discontinued it because of the chickens."

Cataldo, a resident of the area about six months, also testified that Timmons' chickens had destroyed his garden. He said Timmons promised to take the chickens to a farm or fence his property but did not.

Wollam added a similar complaint and declared that the chickens are awake "long before daylight and make such a racket a person can't sleep." He said he had chased the birds out of his yard "many times."

Timmons said a Health Board inspector told him he could continue to keep the fowls so long as they are confined. He said the inspector admitted a chicken gets out of a pen occasionally.

"My chickens haven't been loose for a month," he said. "If they saw a chicken loose it must have belonged to someone else."

Timmons termed the chickens "show birds" and said he raises them as a hobby.

Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark commented that perhaps the anti - noise ordinance was being violated.

"You can't tell a chicken not to cackle," the judge replied.

Clark and Timmons engaged in an exchange on how a chicken - grower can tell his own birds from any others.

Then Clark said: "The city is no place for chickens. They should be out in the country where they don't bother anyone."

"The court is very unfamiliar with the habits of chickens," Judge Chertoff commented. But he pointed out that Timmons had admitted that his birds sometimes wander at large.

"They get up early in the morning and no one can stop them," the judge continued. "If these are show birds it would be to your own advantage to keep them confined."

Continuing the case, he told Timmons to "make a special effort to erect a fence there and make sure your chickens are behind it at all times."

Pay Tax Bill Loses Hildebrand Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo-asked bill that would make it easier for cities to increase municipal income taxes beyond one per cent has lost the support of State Rep. Raymond E. Hildebrand, R-Lucas.

Hildebrand said Wednesday night he has withdrawn his backing from the measure because "apparently there is not enough support for it."

"I have not been contacted by anyone who wants to support it," he added. Hildebrand said he expects the measure "to be the only one to die at the current special session."

He said the legislation Toledo sought would have required only a bare majority of votes at any election to enact increases of more than one per cent in a municipal income tax.

In the form it passed the house, the measure would have required a 55 per cent margin at all elections. Present law requires 60 per cent approval at special and primary elections and 55 percent at general elections.

City councils are permitted to enact a levy up to one per cent without voter approval.

Are Women As Good Engineers As Men?

NEW YORK (AP) — Do women make as good engineers as men?

In a survey conducted among 7,000 engineering graduates of Columbia University, about half of those questioned said yes, about half said no.

Those replying in the affirmative said intelligence knows no sex and that ability transcends gender. However, the "no's" said women might do better as engineers if they didn't have primary responsibility for reproduction of the species.

The biggest objection to women engineers was this: although they start out as dedicated career engineers, before long they run afoul of some man (usually another engineer) and from then on this gal's services are usually lost to the engineering profession.

Levy Supported By Beaver Local Parental Group

Endorsement of the proposed new Beaver Local 5-4-mill levy in a special election Jan. 5 was authorized by the Beaver Local Music Parents at a meeting Tuesday night at the school.

It was reported the special uniform fund now stands at $4,391.

Robert Sprague, director, spoke on instrument needs, and was given permission to purchase a french horn.

A contribution of $25 for the "Dollars for Scholars" drive was authorized.

Mrs. Mary Green of the East Liverpool Garden Club demonstrated Christmas decorations. Seventeen attended.

Hunger Strike Ended By 500 Monks, Nuns

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five hundred Buddhist monks and nuns ended a 24-hour hunger strike today, but Buddhist leaders made plans to keep up their campaign against the government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Reliable sources predicted bigger hunger strikes and street demonstrations.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor scheduled a meeting with Huong to discuss the situation.

The Buddhist drive to topple Huong's regime was credited with causing the resignations Wednesday of Education and Cultural Minister Phan Tan Chuc and Tran Thuc Linh, a deputy chief of the Information Ministry.

Other ministers are known to be wanting to get out of the government, but Huong has asked that they remain until the situation has calmed.

The Buddhists particularly oppose the ministers of information, social welfare and justice.

Buddhist leaders complain that some of Huong's Cabinet members are holdovers from the administration of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, whose regime they helped overthrow in November 1963. Huong so far has rebuffed the Buddhists' attempts to regain a position of political power.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. military forces in South Viet Nam, said in Honolulu Wednesday that the current demonstrations apparently represent a small minority and that they pose no serious threat to Huong's government.

Westmoreland, en route home for the funeral of his father, expressed confidence in Huong's government and said, "We have high hopes that the misunderstanding can soon be resolved."

Levies' Support In Beaver Local Cost Group'$673

The Association for Advancement of Beaver Local Education (ABLE) spent $673 to promote two levies in the school district at the general election Nov. 3, it said today in a sworn statement of expenses filed with the County Election Board.

The report was filed by Roland Marshall, publicity chairman. The school district renewed a 1.6-mill levy but defeated another measure of 5.4 mills.

Galen Greenisen of near Salem, Republican, reported he spent $386 in an unsuccessful bid for a new term as county commissioner. R. Dale Miller of near Lisbon, Republican, listed expenses of $432 in an unsuccessful bid for the county treasurer's post.

The Election Board said only two candidates, both defeated, have not filed the expense statements. The deadline falls Friday at 4 p.m.

Jury Convicts For Burglary

NEW CUMBERLAND — A Circuit Court jury deliberated for only eight minutes before returning a guilty verdict Wednesday against Thomas Riffee, 19, of Weirton, accused of breaking and entering a Weirton home.

Leopards Shoot For 5th Straight; Wellsville Hosts Central

Ben Springer, 6-5 cager, who transferred from Beaver Local to East Liverpool earlier this week, will be in the starting lineup Friday night when the Potters meet undefeated Midland.

Coach Frank Chan announced that "Springer has adjusted real well to our system and I expect him to be a big help both in scoring and rebounding."

With Springer will be Terry Lawrence, Bob Maltarich, Joe Massey and Frank Taylor. Vern Smith, a sophomore, had started the first two games.

"WE HAVE had some of our best practice sessions this week and the morale is real good even though we lost those two games last week."

"Physically we are better than a week ago. Lawrence and Massey are getting over sprained ankles and Maltarich had a slight shoulder injury," Chan pointed out.

THE POTTER coach regards Midland highly calling the Leopards "the No. 1 team in Pennsylvania."

"We're concentrating on Midland this week but we know we have a game with Wellsville Saturday. An East Liverpool-Wellsville game is always a tight affair," Chan said.

The Potters will meet Wellsville Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium.

MIDLAND will be shooting for its fifth victory of the season and its 51st straight victory at home. No team has defeated Midland on its home court in three years.

Saturday, the Leopards may have their work cut out when they travel to Steubenville to meet Big Red.

One game tonight finds South Side at Burgettstown to kick off a weekend of 16 games. Nine more tilts are scheduled Friday with six Saturday.

STEUBENVILLE Central travels to Wellsville Friday where both teams can show 1-2 records. Central has lost to Pittsburgh Fifth Ave. and Bellaire St. John's but measured Toronto last week, 44-40.

Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers came up with their first victory last Friday defeating Lisbon after dropping contests to Midland and Beaver Local.

Southern Local and United meet at Southern in a crucial battle between two county rivals. Southern dropped its first game last week after compiling three straight victories.

—:—

CRESTVIEW will go after its third win in four outings at North Lima. Tri-County action opens Friday with Louisville at Columbiana, Lisbon visiting East Palestine and Leetonia traveling to Poland.

Western Beaver, owner of the longest winning streak in the district, shoots for its seventh in a row at Northwestern tomorrow night.

In one other battle Salem goes to Canton Timken.

Beaver Local with two victories in a row over Wellsville and North Lima will entertain East Palestine Saturday night in the Beavers only appearance this week.

Premature Flip Is Grid Oddity

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They flipped over John McClusky's nonchalant flip and the Harvard quarterback's premature gesture of success was selected today the college football oddity-of-the-year in the annual Associated Press poll.

The McClusky incident in Harvard's opening game against Massachusetts Sept. 26 was named on eight ballots in the voting by 53 writers and broadcasters.

There was scattered support for Dick Kenney, Michigan State's barefoot kicker, and kicking specialist Bob Etter of Georgia, who picked up a bad snap from center on a field goal situation and scored the winning touchdown against Florida.

However, McClusky's move drew more than twice the votes collected by any other.

It happened this way:

McClusky, making his varsity debut, had scampered 82 yards for one of the touchdowns that gave his team a 14-0 lead.

However, it was 14-14 in the fourth quarter. The ball was on the Massachusetts two-yard line . . . fourth down and one to go for a first down.

McClusky, from Middletown, Ohio, rolled out to the right. There was good blocking in front of him and he scampered untouched into the end zone for an apparent score. But he flipped the ball prematurely just before crossing the goalline. It landed on the one-yard line where it was recovered by Massachusetts.

Harvard eventually beat Massachusetts 20-14. However, McClusky suffered a pulled hamstring muscle on the odd play, the injury reducing his effectiveness the rest of the season.

Gilchrist Unanimous Choice On AFL Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite serving time on the waiver list, Buffalo fullback Cookie Gilchrist was the only unanimous choice on the American Football League All-Star team named by The Associated Press.

Gilchrist, one of six Bills on the team picked by a 24-man panel in the eight league cities, was the only player on either the offensive or defensive units to get all the votes and regained the fullback spot he lost to Oakland's Clem Daniels last season.

Involved in a mid-season hassle with Coach Lou Saban that resulted in his being placed on the waiver list, Gilchrist proceeded to make amends, rejoined the team and put himself into position to become the first player in the league's history to become a two-time 1,000-yard ground gainer.

Gilchrist needs 71 yards in Sunday's key game against Boston that will decide the Eastern Division title. However, he figures to have tough going against a Patriots' defense that had three men named to the All-Star team.

In all, Boston placed five men on the team as did San Diego's Western Division champions.

Besides Gilchrist, the Bills placed tackle Stew Barber and guard Billy Shaw on the offensive unit and tackle Tom Sestak, linebacker Mike Stratton and safety George Saimes on the defensive team.

Boston's contingent includes quarterback Babe Parilli and guard Billy Neighbors along with the three defenders — end Larry Eisenhauer, middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti and safety Ron Hall.

San Diego's five includes flanker Lance Alworth, Keith Lincoln at the running back spot, offensive tackle Ron Mix, defensive end Earl Faison and Ernie Ladd, the 6-foot-9, 321-pound defensive tackle.

Kansas City placed two men on the team and New York, Houston, Oakland and Denver one each.

Fred Arbanas at tight end and cornerback Daye Grayson were the Chiefs' representatives. Corner linebacker Larry Grantham made it for the Jets, receiver Charley Hennigan for the Oilers, center Jim Otto for the Raiders and cornerback Willie Brown for the Broncos.

Otto has been an All-Star for the five years the league has been in existence.

Ten others were repeaters from last year—Alworth, Lincoln, Mix, Barber, Shaw and Arbanas on offense and Faiso, Sestak, Eisenhauer and Grantham on defense.

Doyt Perry Gets AD Job

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Athletic Director Harold Anderson of Bowling Green State University resigned today and head football coach Doyt Perry was named to succeed him.

Anderson, 62, has been athletic director for 23 years. A 1924 graduate of Otterbein College, he served for 21 years at BGU as basketball coach with a record of 504 wins and 226 wins in those years.

Before coming to the university, he taught in Toledo schools and was head basketball coach at Toledo University for eight years.

Perry, 54, has been head football coach here since 1955, and leads the nation's coaches in his wins for the period, 77 victories against 10 defeats and 5 ties. His teams have won the Mid-American Conference football title five of his 10 seasons.

Perry coached at Upper Arlington High school before going to the Navy in 1943 and was backfield coach under Woody Hayes at Ohio State University from 1951-1954.

A new football coach will be selected soon, it was indicated, with current members of the football coaching staff being screened by university officials.

Penn State gave up only three touchdowns in its last five games.

Westgate Turns Back East, 43-32

Mike McVay and Earl Diddle hit for 16 points each to lead Westgate which came from behind in the second half to defeat arch - rival East Junior High, 43-32, Wednesday at Memorial Auditorium.

Westgate posted its sixth straight victory of the season while the loss was the first for East Junior, winners of three games.

The Wildcats were in fron 12-9 at the end of the first period, but East rallied to claim a 20-16 edge at halftime.

Westgate came right back and went into a 30-27 lead then pulled away in the fourth quarter.

McVay showed three field goals and 10 charity tosses while Diddle hit on five goals and six fouls.

High for East was Mitchell Jones, 6-4, center, who tallied 11 points.

East will play host to Midland Friday at 4:15 p. m.

Browns Open Practice For Playoff Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—There is no popcorn or selected short subjects, but the Cleveland Browns are enjoying their latest film while preparing for the National Football League championship game with the Baltimore Colts.

The feature attraction is a rerun of the Browns 52-20 victory last Saturday over the New York Giants. The Browns' version shows lots of good buys, especially linebacker Vince Costello, the pride of Magnolia, Ohio, High School and Ohio University.

Captain and linebacker Galen Fiss summed up Costello's performance:

"Vince played a helluva game."

The Browns, Eastern Division champs, donned their workout uniforms Wednesday and went to work for the Dec. 27 meeting with the Colts in Municipal Stadium.

Also on the movie schedule this week is a flicker on the Colts. Costello, who roams the middle, doesn't expect any special preparation to get ready for Colts' quarterback Johnny Unitas.

"We haven't seen them (the Colts), except on television, but we'll be studying the movies," he said. "There won't be any great changes from what we've been doing, though. Not at this stage anyway."

The Browns worked out last week at the stadium but switched back to their usual practice field, League Park, to protect the stadium turf for the championship game.

The Browns should be in good physical condition. There were no serious injuries against the Giants.

Asked about the Baltimore game, Costello said:

"This is the one we've been fighting for. I know they're favored, but I've never gone into a football game in my life that I didn't think we could win."

Hagen, Golf Great, Undergoes Operation

DETROIT (AP) — Walter Hagen, one of golfdom's all-time great players, was pronounced in good condition today after undergoing what a spokesman for Henry Ford Hospital described as minor surgery on his throat.

Cause for the operation was not disclosed.

Hagen, who will be 72 Monday, was U.S. Open champion in 1914 and 1919. He also won the British Open title in 1922, 1924, and 1928 and 1929, and reigned as Professional Golf Association king in 1921 and from 1924 through 1927.

Western Squads Travel East To End Win Streaks

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seattle and Colorado State University came from out of the West and shattered the all-winning slates of two Eastern teams in college basketball Wednesday night.

Fritz Has 37 Points To Pace WVU Frosh

The Little Mountaineers were led, as usual, by Ron Fritz Williams. The Weirton graduate got 37 points, six over his game average.

The WVU freshmen have won all eight of their games so far this season.

Seattle edged LaSalle 76-74 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. CSU defeated Cornell 67-65 at Ithaca, N.Y. LaSalle had won four straight, Cornell three.

Duke, Penn State and Baylor also came through with road victories in other feature games on a comparatively slim national program.

The sixth-ranked Duke Blue Devils, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, nipped Clemson 80-79. Penn State downed Temple 73-63 in the opener of the Philadelphia twin bill while unbeaten Baylor made it five in a row by taking North Texas 86-81.

Charlie Williams sank a field goal from 20 feet out with only three seconds left to give Seattle its victory. He then stole the ball to balk LaSalle of a final shot. Tom Vidakovich similarly popped one in from the outside in the closing minutes to put Colorado State U. ahead for good against Cornell.

Duke came from 11 points back to beat Clemson behind 10 straight points by Steve Vacendak. His goal with 1:34 left put the Blue Devils ahead for good.

Ray Saunders led Penn State with 22 points as the Nittany Lions won their fourth straight on the road. Six straight free throws, coupled with the foul-out of 6-foot-8 Willie Davis for North Texas, accounted for Baylor's triumph.

Houston handed Auburn its first defeat 50-48 in the Bluebonnet doubleheader at Houston while Dan Connaughton's two free throws in the last four seconds gave Chicago Loyola a home court 84-83 victory over North Dakota State.

Lakers Lose 4-Point Lead In 4 Seconds But Nip Foe

By The Associated Press

For a while Los Angeles Laker Coach Fred Schaus thought he had a regulation-time National Basketball Association victory over Detroit wrapped up Wednesday night.

After all, a four-point lead with four seconds to go would make even the most insecure coach content. But before Schaus could say "Stop the clock" he was in a tie ball game.

Schaus' Lakers won it 126-120 in overtime to highlight Wednesday's NBA action. In other games, Boston edged San Francisco 107-106, St. Louis ripped New York 117-103 and Baltimore bombed Philadelphia 140-120.

Here's how Schaus' club lost its seemingly safe lead.

First Ray Scott was fouled and his two free throws narrowed the margin to two points. The Lakers fumbled the ball putting it in bounds, using just one second up on the clock. Before the Pistons could put it in play, Eddie Miles was fouled and his two free throws knotted it.

Elgin Baylor and Jerry West bailed the Lakers out with four points in the first 45 seconds of the overtime. West led all scorers with 39 points and Baylor and Rudy LaRusso had 22 apiece.

Army, Irish May Play Football Next Season

NEW YORK (AP) — After an absence of 18 years, Notre Dame and Army may play football in New York next fall.

No announcement is expected to be made until next month about the site of the game scheduled for Oct. 9, 1965, but an Army spokesman said Wednesday night New York and Philadelphia are receiving prime consideration for the renewal of the once-fierce rivalry.

The schools have signed for two games on a home-and-home basis, the 1966 contest being scheduled for South Bend, Ind.

If New York is selected, the game most likely would be played in 60,000-seat Shea Stadium.

Grid Player Defeats Case Of Encephalitis

CLEVELAND (AP)—After a week's bout with a rare form of encephalitis, a 17 - year - old Brecksville High School football player went home Wednesday looking "fit and fine," doctors said.

Robert Fusco was stricken with the disease last week and rushed to Metropolitan General Hospital, where he was in a coma three days at one point and given a 50-50 chance to live.

Leopards Shoot For 5th Straight; Wellsville Hosts Central

Ben Springer, 6-5 cager, who transferred from Beaver Local to East Liverpool earlier this week, will be in the starting lineup Friday night when the Potters meet undefeated Midland.

Coach Frank Chan announced that "Springer has adjusted real well to our system and I expect him to be a big help both in scoring and rebounding."

With Springer will be Terry Lawrence, Bob Maltarich, Joe Massey and Frank Taylor. Vern Smith, a sophomore, had started the first two games.

—:—

"WE HAVE had some of our best practice sessions this week and the morale is real good even though we lost those two games last week."

"Physically we are better than a week ago. Lawrence and Massey are getting over sprained ankles and Maltarich had a slight shoulder injury," Chan pointed out.

THE POTTER coach regards Midland highly calling the Leopards "the No. 1 team in Pennsylvania."

"We're concentrating on Midland this week but we know we have a game with Wellsville Saturday. An East Liverpool-Wellsville game is always a tight affair," Chan said.

The Potters will meet Wellsville Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium.

MIDLAND will be shooting for its fifth victory of the season and its 51st straight victory at home. No team has defeated Midland on its home court in three years.

Saturday, the Leopards may have their work cut out when they travel to Steubenville to meet Big Red.

One game tonight finds South Side at Burgettstown to kick off a weekend of 16 games. Nine more tilts are scheduled Friday with six Saturday.

STEUBENVILLE Central travels to Wellsville Friday where both teams can show 1-2 records. Central has lost to Pittsburgh Fifth Ave. and Bellaire St. John's but measured Toronto last week, 44-40.

Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers came up with their first victory last Friday defeating Lisbon after dropping contests to Midland and Beaver Local.

Southern Local and United meet at Southern in a crucial battle between two county rivals. Southern dropped its first game last week after compiling three straight victories.

—:—

CRESTVIEW will go after its third win in four outings at North Lima. Tri-County action opens Friday with Louisville at Columbiana, Lisbon visiting East Palestine and Leetonia traveling to Poland.

Western Beaver, owner of the longest winning streak in the district, shoots for its seventh in a row at Northwestern tomorrow night.

In one other battle Salem goes to Canton Timken.

Beaver Local with two victories in a row over Wellsville and North Lima will entertain East Palestine Saturday night in the Beavers only appearance this week.

Premature Flip Is Grid Oddity

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They flipped over John McClusky's nonchalant flip and the Harvard quarterback's premature gesture of success was selected today the college football oddity-of-the-year in the annual Associated Press poll.

The McClusky incident in Harvard's opening game against Massachusetts Sept. 26 was named on eight ballots in the voting by 53 writers and broadcasters.

There was scattered support for Dick Kenney, Michigan State's barefoot kicker, and kicking specialist Bob Etter of Georgia, who picked up a bad snap from center on a field goal situation and scored the winning touchdown against Florida.

However, McClusky's move drew more than twice the votes collected by any other.

It happened this way:

McClusky, making his varsity debut, had scampered 82 yards for one of the touchdowns that gave his team a 14-0 lead.

However, it was 14-14 in the fourth quarter. The ball was on the Massachusetts two-yard line . . . fourth down and one to go for a first down.

McClusky, from Middletown, Ohio, rolled out to the right. There was good blocking in front of him and he scampered untouched into the end zone for an apparent score. But he flipped the ball prematurely just before crossing the goal-line. It landed on the one-yard line where it was recovered by Massachusetts.

Harvard eventually beat Massachusetts 20-14. However, McClusky suffered a pulled hamstring muscle on the odd play, the injury reducing his effectiveness the rest of the season.

Gilchrist Unanimous Choice On AFL Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite serving time on the waiver list, Buffalo fullback Cookie Gilchrist was the only unanimous choice on the American Football League All-Star team named by The Associated Press.

Gilchrist, one of six Bills on the team picked by a 24-man panel in the eight league cities, was the only player on either the offensive or defensive units to get all the votes and regained the fullback spot he lost to Oakland's Clem Daniels last season.

Involved in a mid-season hassle with Coach Lou Saban that resulted in his being placed on the waiver list, Gilchrist proceeded to make amends, rejoined the team and put himself into position to become the first player in the league's history to become a two-time 1,000-yard ground gainer.

Gilchrist needs 71 yards in Sunday's key game against Boston that will decide the Eastern Division title. However, he figures to have tough going against a Patriots' defense that had three men named to the All-Star team.

In all, Boston placed five men on the team as did San Diego's Western Division champions.

Besides Gilchrist, the Bills placed tackle Stew Barber and guard Billy Shaw on the offensive unit and tackle Tom Sestak, linebacker Mike Stratton and safety George Saimes on the defensive team.

Boston's contingent includes quarterback Babe Parilli and guard Billy Neighbors along with the three defenders — end Larry Eisenhauer, middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti and safety Ron Hall.

San Diego's five includes flanker Lance Alworth, Keith Lincoln at the running back spot, offensive tackle Ron Mix, defensive end Earl Faison and Ernie Ladd, the 6-foot-9, 321-pound defensive tackle.

Kansas City placed two men on the team and New York, Houston, Oakland and Denver one each.

Fred Arbanas at tight end and cornerback Daye Grayson were the Chiefs' representatives. Corner linebacker Larry Grantham made it for the Jets, receiver Charley Hennigan for the Oilers, center Jim Otto for the Raiders and cornerback Willie Brown for the Broncos.

Otto has been an All-Star for the five years the league has been in existence.

Ten others were repeaters from last year—Alworth, Lincoln, Mix, Barber, Shaw and Arbanas on offense and Faiso, Sestak, Eisenhauer and Grantham on defense.

Doyt Perry Gets AD Job

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Athletic Director Harold Anderson of Bowling Green State University resigned today and head football coach Doyt Perry was named to succeed him.

Anderson, 62, has been athletic director for 23 years. A 1924 graduate of Otterbein College, he served for 21 years at BGU as basketball coach with a record of 504 wins and 226 wins in those years.

Before coming to the university, he taught in Toledo schools and was head basketball coach at Toledo University for eight years.

Perry, 54, has been head football coach here since 1955, and leads the nation's coaches in his wins for the period, 77 victories against 10 defeats and 5 ties. His teams have won the Mid-American Conference football title five of his 10 seasons.

Perry coached at Upper Arlington High school before going to the Navy in 1943 and was backfield coach under Woody Hayes at Ohio State University from 1951-1954.

A new football coach will be selected soon, it was indicated, with current members of the football coaching staff being screened by university officials.

Penn State gave up only three touchdowns in its last five games.

Browns Open Practice For Playoff Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—There is no popcorn or selected short subjects, but the Cleveland Browns are enjoying their latest film while preparing for the National Football League championship game with the Baltimore Colts.

The feature attraction is a rerun of the Browns 52-20 victory last Saturday over the New York Giants. The Browns' version shows lots of good buys, especially linebacker Vince Costello, the pride of Magnolia, Ohio, High School and Ohio University.

Captain and linebacker Galen Fiss summed up Costello's performance:

"Vince played a helluva game."

The Browns, Eastern Division champs, donned their workout uniforms Wednesday and went to work for the Dec. 27 meeting with the Colts in Municipal Stadium.

Also on the movie schedule this week is a flicker on the Colts. Costello, who roams the middle, doesn't expect any special preparation to get ready for Colts' quarterback Johnny Unitas.

"We haven't seen them (the Colts), except on television, but we'll be studying the movies," he said. "There won't be any great changes from what we've been doing, though. Not at this stage anyway."

The Browns worked out last week at the stadium but switched back to their usual practice field, League Park, to protect the stadium turf for the championship game.

The Browns should be in good physical condition. There were no serious injuries against the Giants.

Asked about the Baltimore game, Costello said:

"This is the one we've been fighting for. I know they're favored, but I've never gone into a football game in my life that I didn't think we could win."

Western Squads Travel East To End Win Streaks

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seattle and Colorado State University came from out of the West and shattered the all-winning slates of two Eastern teams in college basketball Wednesday night.

The sixth-ranked Duke Blue Devils, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, nipped Clemson 80-79. Penn State downed Temple 73-63 in the opener of the Philadelphia twin bill while unbeaten Baylor made it five in a row by taking North Texas 86-81.

Charlie Williams sank a field goal from 20 feet out with only three seconds left to give Seattle its victory. He then stole the ball to balk LaSalle of a final shot. Tom Vidakovich similarly popped one in from the outside in the closing minutes to put Colorado State U. ahead for good against Cornell.

Duke came from 11 points back to beat Clemson behind 10 straight points by Steve Vacendak. His goal with 1:34 left put the Blue Devils ahead for good.

Ray Saunders led Penn State with 22 points as the Nittany Lions won their fourth straight on the road. Six straight free throws, coupled with the foul-out of 6-foot-8 Willie Davis for North Texas, accounted for Baylor's triumph.

Houston handed Auburn its first defeat 50-48 in the Bluebonnet doubleheader at Houston while Dan Connaughton's two free throws in the last four seconds gave Chicago Loyola a home court 84-83 victory over North Dakota State.

Fritz Has 37 Points To Pace WVU Frosh

The Little Mountaineers were led, as usual, by Ron Fritz Williams. The Weirton graduate got 37 points, six over his game average.

The WVU freshmen have won all eight of their games so far this season.

Seattle edged LaSalle 76-74 in the feature of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. CSU defeated Cornell 67-65 at Ithaca, N.Y. LaSalle had won four straight, Cornell three.

Duke, Penn State and Baylor also came through with road victories in other feature games on a comparatively slim national program.

Lakers Lose 4-Point Lead In 4 Seconds But Nip Foe

By The Associated Press

For a while Los Angeles Laker Coach Fred Schaus thought he had a regulation-time National Basketball Association victory over Detroit wrapped up Wednesday night.

After all, a four-point lead with four seconds to go would make even the most insecure coach content. But before Schaus could say "Stop the clock" he was in a tie ball game.

Schaus' Lakers won it 126-120 in overtime to highlight Wednesday's NBA action. In other games, Boston edged San Francisco 107-106, St. Louis ripped New York 117-103 and Baltimore bombed Philadelphia 140-120.

Here's how Schaus' club lost its seemingly safe lead.

First Ray Scott was fouled and his two free throws narrowed the margin to two points. The Lakers fumbled the ball putting it in bounds, using just one second up on the clock. Before the Pistons could put it in play, Eddie Miles was fouled and his two free throws knotted it.

Elgin Baylor and Jerry West bailed the Lakers out with four points in the first 45 seconds of the overtime. West led all scorers with 39 points and Baylor and Rudy LaRusso had 22 apiece.

Army, Irish May Play Football Next Season

NEW YORK (AP) — After an absence of 18 years, Notre Dame and Army may play football in New York next fall.

No announcement is expected to be made until next month about the site of the game scheduled for Oct. 9, 1965, but an Army spokesman said Wednesday night New York and Philadelphia are receiving prime consideration for the renewal of the once-fierce rivalry.

The schools have signed for two games on a home-and-home basis, the 1966 contest being scheduled for South Bend, Ind.

If New York is selected, the game most likely would be played in 60,000-seat Shea Stadium.

You're The Skipper

An Outboard Rescues A Cruiser

By JOHN BOHANNAN

The commander of the Coast Guard Auxiliary flotilla was asking for reports of assists by members during the past season, and my friend, Tom Glass, came up with a remarkable account.

Tom had made port during a cruise north and was loafing on the dock when a heavy bank of advection fog came rolling in. It happened so quickly he went aboard his 43-foot cruiser, the Mar-J, to listen on 2182 kc to see if anyone was in trouble.

Sure enough, the skipper of a pleasure boat was asking for help in entering the port. He gave his approximate position as near an offshore island. He admitted he was lost in the fog.

TOM CALLED him on the radio telephone and told him to anchor. Then he sprinted down the dock to the harbormaster's shack.

"This is a job for my son, John, the harbormaster said.

Tom climbed into John's 15-foot outboard runabout and they headed out the channel. John's father stayed aboard the Mar-J to maintain contact with the craft in trouble.

John adjusted the throttle, watching the tachometer. As they passed the end of the breakwater, John checked the time and put the boat on course.

"We'll run for 19 minutes," said John. "That will put us close to the outer light. We'll be able to hear that fellow's horn if he's where he thinks he is."

At the end of the run, John shut off the outboard and anchored. On a small portable direction finder, they could hear John's father talking with the other boat. They tried to take a bearing on the boat, but the null was too broad because they were so close and they couldn't cut down the gain enough.

John turned on his citizen's band radio and heard his father calling him. "I'm back at the shack!" he said. "Could you get a bearing on that boat when we were talking?"

"No. Go back to the boat and tell him to keep blowing his horn. We'll try to guide him to us!" Tom knew how deceptive sound can be in a fog.

John faced the sound of the horn and took a rough bearing across the campass. Then the harbormaster called again on the citizen's band and John gave him the reciprocal bearing. "He's got good water all the way to us, but tell him to take it easy."

As the horn on the lost boat grew louder, John called for two more changes in course while his father ran back and forth between the shack, to use the CB telephone, and the Mar-J to pass instructions to the boat on the marine band.

The fog began to lift and there was the boat, a 54-foot cruiser, bearing down on them at a slow pace. The outer buoy was close by.

John and his little outboard led the big boat into port, a feat he had performed several times before in fog.

"You've got to be accurate all the way," John explained. "You must have a tachometer, a good watch and a compass corrected as much as possible. I make a new speed curve and deviation table every year just to be sure."

It's good to hear of an outboard skipper who has mastered his piloting so well. The same principles apply, regardless of size.

Questions and Answers

Q.—I would like to figure the speed of my boat at various tachometer readings, but there's no measured mile handy. How can I do it?

A.—Take the distance in nautical miles between any two charted objects, multiply by 6,080 to convert to feet, divide by the number of seconds it took you to cover the distance and you'll have your speed in feet per second. Then multiply by 3,600 and divide by 6,080 to get the speed in knots. If your chart uses statute miles instead of nautical miles, use 5,280 feet instead of 6,080, and you'll have the answer in miles per hour.

A.—No, sometimes there are echoes and silent areas.

He's Freshman At Boston U.

Joe Louis Jr. Has Little Interest In Boxing Game

BOSTON (AP) — It's his size that hits you first when you meet him. But by the time you depart, you are so impressed with the personable, young man named Joe Louis Barrow Jr. you've already forgotten the dimensions.

Young Barrow, or Louis as many insist upon calling him, is 17 now and a freshman at Boston University. He stands only 5-foot-7 and weighs 130 pounds — a sharp contrast to his famous father, the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The size, he admits, is one reason why he's never thought of being a boxer himself. "I'm just too small. I'd probably be a bantamweight, if I did."

Actually, the 130 pounds would qualify young Joe as a lightweight but it wouldn't make much difference to the slim youth.

Joe Jr. is a serious lad. He knows what he wants for the future and he doesn't kid himself that he'd get there through boxing.

Joe has his eye on a business career and plans to major in merchandising during his undergraduate years. He also has his mind geared for graduate work at a business school.

Though boxing is out, young Joe enjoys athletics. "I did some diving in high school but BU doesn't have a swimming team. And I like golf," he said. "I'm not too proficient now, but maybe some day. . . "

One thing he likes about New England is the readily available ski slopes. He recalled the five-hour trips from Chicago to northern Michigan to ski while in high school and noted that isn't necessary from Boston.

Joe Sr. is a fight promoter now on the West Coast.

Joe Jr. lives in Chicago with his mother, now Mrs. Marva Spaulding. It was in Chicago that Joe grew up "in a private school area where I was protected."

The protection he speaks of concerns a shield from discrimination "something all Negroes face" whether or not they have a famous name.

"I've never been very enthusiastic about civil rights demonstrations," he admits, though confessing he has given the problem a lot of thought. "Noisy demonstrations seem to hurt the cause more than they help at this point. I think most of them are wasted now that we have the Civil Rights Act."

Barons Face Central St. In Top Game

By The Associated Press

Central State is making a menacing move toward Top Ten ranking in The Associated Press small college basketball poll, but the way things are going, they may be sorry if they get there.

The Marauders bounced Youngstown Wednesday night, 84-63, inflicting the initial defeat on the Penguins—meaning that all three Ohio representatives in the national Top Ten have tasted defeat in their last appearances.

Youngstown stood No. 8 in today's national AP ratings; Akron No. 7—though a 48-47 loser at American U. last Saturday—and Wittenberg No. 4 but smarting from Tuesday night's 44-43 upset by Muskingum.

National ranking thus would seem to shape up as a kiss of death, but more Ohio schools—Central State, Cedarville and Steubenville, to name three — seem willing to take the risk.

The Marauders, Cedars and Barons are among a shrunken list of Ohio unbeatens—and another reduction takes place tonight when Central State visits Steubenville.

While Central was repeating a job it did on Youngstown last season when it halted a 16-game Penguin winning streak, Cedarville was rolling over Detroit Tech 111-82 for its sixth triumph of the campaign, same as Central boasts.

Ken Wilburn's 23 points led Central State over the now 5-1 Penguins while Al Knott rang up 32 in Cedarville's cakewalk.

In other Wednesday action for Ohio schools, Indiana State flashed evidence of recent first-hand lessons absorbed from the likes of Michigan and UCLA in nipping Kent State 85-75 in overtime at Terre Haute.

Denison clipped Heidelberg 59-44 in the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace sailed over Carnegie Tech 94-74, and two Ohio entries were demoted to the consolation bracket as the Quantico Marines' annual Christmas tourney opened in Virginia.

At Quantico, Findlay lost to Philadelphia Textile 94-72 while Franklin U. of Columbus, in its most notable cage venture, stayed with Slippery Rock most of the way before sliding to a 76-71 loss.

Reds Compile Highest Mark In Fielding

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds compiled the highest fielding average among National League teams last season, but the Houston Colts and Milwaukee Braves shared individual honors.

The Reds finished with a .979 average followed by the Braves .977 and Colts .976, the official averages disclosed today.

The Colts and Braves each had two individual pace-setters. Bob Aspromonte of Houston topped the third basemen with a .973 mark while Kasko, another Colt, led the shortstops with .978. Aspromonte broke a National League record by making only 11 errors. The previous mark for third basemen was 13 by Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs in 1937.

Second-baseman Frank Bolling and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee also posted the highest average at their positions, Bolling with .985 and Torre with .995.

Other leaders were first-baseman Bill White of St. Louis and outfielder Tony Gonzalez, Philadelphia, each with .996 and pitcher Larry Jackson of the Cubs, who handled 109 chances without an error to set a big league record.

Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh led the second basemen in participating in double plays for a record fifth straight season. He took part in 122 in 1964. He ranked sixth in average, however.

Electric Shock Kills Ex-Tennis Champion

CLEVELAND (AP) — Milton N. Silberman, 48, of South Euclid, a former state scholastic tennis champion, died Wednesday, apparently of electric shock, when he touched the door of a refrigerated milk truck while at work. He was a salesman for the Sealtest Foods Division of the National Dairy Corp.

Police said a co-worker who witnessed the accident told them Silberman had been walking in a wet parking lot shortly before he was killed.

He was a tennis star at Shaw High School in East Cleveland, from which he was graduated in 1934. He won the Ohio Scholastic Singles Championship in 1933 and later was the city amateur champion.

For Ohioans Named On AFL's 2nd Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Four players with Ohio connections are members of the American Football League's All-Star second team.

Named Wednesday to the offensive back-up unit were Kansas City tackle Jim Tyrer, formerly of Newark and Ohio State Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson, Purdue star who hails from Alliance; flanker back Elbert Dubenion, formerly of Bluffton College and Columbus, and fullback Matt Snell of New York, formerly of Ohio State.

Buffalo safety back George Saimes, formerly of Canton, Ohio, was named to the all-star defensive unit.

State Full Of 'Ex's'

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky has seven living former governors. By former Gov. Bert Combs' reckoning, that's more than any other state. "Nowadays," he said, "whenever someone says to me, 'Hello, Governor, how are you?'" six people answer, 'Fine, thank you.' "

Cappeletti Named MVP In AFL Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Gino Cappelletti, the decisive factor in many of the Boston Patriots' victories and league leading scorer, has been named the Most Valuable Player in the American Football League by an Associated press panel.

Cappelletti, formerly a defensive back, moved to an end-flanker job. He scored half of Boston's points and led the league with 155 points, a record total, with his place-kicking and pass-catching ability.

With one big winner-take-all game against Buffalo still to be played Sunday for the Eastern Division title, Cappelletti has caught seven touchdown passes and kicked 25 field goals in 38 attempts. The 30-year-old former Minnesota player also kicked 36 conversions and caught a pass for a two-point conversion as permitted in the AFL. He broke his own scoring record of 147, set in 1961.

Cappelletti's most dramatic field goal was kicked against Houston in the last three seconds for a 25-24 victory. In the big game with the Buffalo Bills in which the Pats ended Buffalo's nine-game winning streak, Cappelletti caught three TD passes, added two conversion kicks and also caught the two-point conversion pass in a 36-28 game. Against Denver Oct. 4 he kicked six field goals.

The veteran, one of the original Patriots, has scored 22 touchdowns in his five-year career, booted 92 of 161 field goals and 193 of 197 conversions plus the two-pointer for a grand total of 603 points.

Forgetful Farmer Left Pigs At Fair

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Personnel of the Kansas State Fair found a real forgetful farmer.

Thirty-five pigs bought at an auction remained at the fair several days with no one claiming them. Wallace White, fair secretary, checked records and found the pigs were sold to Leonard Drumright of Harper, Kan.

Drumright, much embarrassed, said he bought a number of pigs at the sale and just forgot the last 35

Navy, Hardin Due To Part Company

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Naval Academy and football Coach Wayne Hardin part company today after a contract dispute which lasted 10 days.

The Academy scheduled an afternoon news conference to make a formal announcement, and indications were the coach would be on hand.

It seemed almost immaterial whether it would be phrased that Hardin was resigning, or was being dismissed from the head coaching post he has held for six years after four as a Navy assistant coach.

It is generally known he did not quit willingly. He has said several times since the dispute became known publicly last weekend that he was satisfied with the five-year contract he signed last Feb. 18 and wanted to continue under it.

The final conference with Academy officials on the issue ended Wednesday night in Baltimore with lawyers present for both sides.

Reports circulated that the coach was extremely dissatisfied with the terms arrived at, but Hardin could not be reached for comment.

Alston Forgets Baseball At His Home In Darrtown

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Baseball is great stuff, but it's nice to "forget it for awhile," manager Walt (Smoky) Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said this week.

Alston made the comment while being interviewed by students in a journalism class at Miami University, whose campus is a few miles from his home at Darrtown, Ohio.

"I can't think of a more quiet place than Darrtown," Alston said.

"My dad and mother live across the street, I've got a couple of riding horses out back, a grandson who likes to ride and hunt with me—and a pool table in the house. My wife's mother and my daughter and her family live with us.

"When the weather is bad, Dad and I tinker around the workshop.

"I find all the relaxation and recreation I need right in Darrtown."

Alston is scheduled to be the star attraction at the opening of "The Q," a new Oxford billiard hall, but he probably won't make it. He told the students spring training probably will start before opening day at The Q.

Even though he insisted he wants to "forget" baseball for a while, the students soon got him back on the subject. The talk was mostly about the trade which, among other things, gave the Dodgers Claude Osteen in return for Frank Howard.

"If Sandy Koufas is all right, Osteen will strengthen the staff anyway," Smoky said. "But if Sandy's arm still bothers him, Osteen will really come in handy. We hated to give up Howard's power but pitching is still a tremendous factor in this game and Osteen has shown himself to be a really good pitcher."

Alston also said he had seen Johnny Podres working out in the Arizona Winter League and that there is "a good chance he will be ready, too."

Howe Finally Breaks 'Ice' With 2 Goals

By The Associated Press

Gordie Howe had just snapped 12 games of scoring frustration with two goals and two assists against the New York Rangers.

The Detroit Red Wings' Mr. Everything smiled when a reporter asked if, during the slump, he thought Father Time might be catching up with him in his 19th National Hockey League season.

"I started to worry about Father Time 10 years ago," Gordie grinned.

Howe's role in Detroit's 7-3 victory over New York Wednesday night had him in a joking mood. Another reporter asked if, when Howe matches strides with Chicago's Bobby Hull, he feels like he's slowing down.

"Name anyone in the league who doesn't feel he's slowing down when he's skating against Hull," Howe replied.

The Boston Bruins know just what Howe meant. Hull, scoring goals at a fantastic clip, whipped two home as the Black Hawks topped Boston 7-5 in Wednesday's other game.

Hull, who had three assists, boosted his league-leading point total to 38 with his 24th and 25th goals of the season. The Hawks have played 26 games and at his present pace, Bobby seems a cinch to break the NHL record of 50 goals in a season that he shares with Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard.

You're The Skipper

An Outboard Rescues A Cruiser

By JOHN BOHANNAN

The commander of the Coast Guard Auxiliary flotilla was asking for reports of assists by members during the past season, and my friend, Tom Glass, came up with a remarkable account.

Tom had made port during a cruise north and was loafing on the dock when a heavy bank of advection fog came rolling in. It happened so quickly he went aboard his 43-foot cruiser, the Mar-J, to listen on 2182 kc to see if anyone was in trouble.

Sure enough, the skipper of a pleasure boat was asking for help in entering the port. He gave his approximate position as near an offshore island. He admitted he was lost in the fog.

TOM CALLED him on the radio telephone and told him to anchor. Then he sprinted down the dock to the harbormaster's shack.

"This is a job for my son, John, the harbormaster said.

Tom climbed into John's 15-foot outboard runabout and they headed out the channel. John's father stayed aboard the Mar-J to maintain contact with the craft in trouble.

John adjusted the throttle, watching the tachometer. As they passed the end of the breakwater, John checked the time and put the boat on course.

"We'll run for 19 minutes," said John. "That will put us close to the outer light. We'll be able to hear that fellow's horn if he's where he thinks he is."

At the end of the run, John shut off the outboard and anchored. On a small portable direction finder, they could hear John's father talking with the other boat. They tried to take a bearing on the boat, but the null was too broad because they were so close and they couldn't cut down the gain enough.

John turned on his citizen's band radio and heard his father calling him. "I'm back at the shack!" he said. "Could you get a bearing on that boat when we were talking?"

"No. Go back to the boat and tell him to keep blowing his horn. We'll try to guide him to us!" Tom knew how deceptive sound can be in a fog.

John faced the sound of the horn and took a rough bearing across the campass. Then the harbormaster called again on the citizen's band and John gave him the reciprocal bearing. "He's got good water all the way to us, but tell him to take it easy."

As the horn on the lost boat grew louder, John called for two more changes in course while his father ran back and forth between the shack, to use the CB telephone, and the Mar-J to pass instructions to the boat on the marine band.

The fog began to lift and there was the boat, a 54-foot cruiser, bearing down on them at a slow pace. The outer buoy was close by.

John and his little outboard led the big boat into port, a feat he had performed several times before in fog.

"You've got to be accurate all the way," John explained. "You must have a tachometer, a good watch and a compass corrected as much as possible. I make a new speed curve and deviation table every year just to be sure."

It's good to hear of an outboard skipper who has mastered his piloting so well. The same principles apply, regardless of size.

Questions and Answers

Q.—I would like to figure the speed of my boat at various tachometer readings, but there's no measured mile handy. How can I do it?

A.—Take the distance in nautical miles between any two charted objects, multiply by 6,080 to convert to feet, divide by the number of seconds it took you to cover the distance and you'll have your speed in feet per second. Then multiply by 3,600 and divide by 6,080 to get the speed in knots. If your chart uses statute miles instead of nautical miles, use 5,280 feet instead of 6,080, and you'll have the answer in miles per hour.

Q.—Are apparent directions always reliable when listening to fog horns?

A.—No, sometimes there are echoes and silent areas.

He's Freshman At Boston U.

Joe Louis Jr. Has Little Interest In Boxing Game

BOSTON (AP) — It's his size that hits you first when you meet him. But by the time you depart, you are so impressed with the personable, young man named Joe Louis Barrow Jr. you've already forgotten the dimensions.

Young Barrow, or Louis as many insist upon calling him, is 17 now and a freshman at Boston University. He stands only 5-foot-7 and weighs 130 pounds — a sharp contrast to his famous father, the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The size, he admits, is one reason why he's never thought of being a boxer himself. "I'm just too small. I'd probably be a bantamweight, if I did."

Actually, the 130 pounds would qualify young Joe as a lightweight but it wouldn't make much difference to the slim youth.

Joe Jr. is a serious lad. He knows what he wants for the future and he doesn't kid himself that he'd get there through boxing.

Joe has his eye on a business career and plans to major in merchandising during his undergraduate years. He also has his mind geared for graduate work at a business school.

Though boxing is out, young Joe enjoys athletics. "I did some diving in high school but BU doesn't have a swimming team. And I like golf," he said. "I'm not too proficient now, but maybe some day. . ."

One thing he likes about New England is the readily available ski slopes. He recalled the five-hour trips from Chicago to northern Michigan to ski while in high school and noted that isn't necessary from Boston.

Joe Sr. is a fight promoter now on the West Coast.

Joe Jr. lives in Chicago with his mother, now Mrs. Marva Spaulding. It was in Chicago that Joe grew up "in a private school area where I was protected."

The protection he speaks of concerns a shield from discrimination "something all Negroes face" whether or not they have a famous name.

"I've never been very enthusiastic about civil rights demonstrations," he admits, though confessing he has given the problem a lot of thought. "Noisy demonstrations seem to hurt the cause more than they help at this point. I think most of them are wasted now that we have the Civil Rights Act."

Barons Face Central St. In Top Game

By The Associated Press

Central State is making a menacing move toward Top Ten ranking in The Associated Press small college basketball poll, but the way things are going, they may be sorry if they get there.

The Marauders bounced Youngstown Wednesday night, 84-63, inflicting the initial defeat on the Penguins—meaning that all three Ohio representatives in the national Top Ten have tasted defeat in their last appearances.

Youngstown stood No. 8 in today's national AP ratings; Akron No. 7—though a 48-47 loser at American U. last Saturday—and Wittenberg No. 4 but smarting from Tuesday night's 44-43 upset by Muskingum.

National ranking thus would seem to shape up as a kiss of death, but more Ohio schools—Central State, Cedarville and Steubenville, to name three — seem willing to take the risk.

The Marauders, Cedars and Barons are among a shrunken list of Ohio unbeatens—and another reduction takes place tonight when Central State visits Steubenville.

While Central was repeating a job it did on Youngstown last season when it halted a 16-game Penguin winning streak, Cedarville was rolling over Detroit Tech 111-82 for its sixth triumph of the campaign, same as Central boasts.

Ken Wilburn's 23 points led Central State over the now 5-1 Penguins while Al Knott rang up 32 in Cedarville's cakewalk.

In other Wednesday action for Ohio schools, Indiana State flashed evidence of recent first-hand lessons absorbed from the likes of Michigan and UCLA in nipping Kent State 85-75 in overtime at Terre Haute.

Denison clipped Heidelberg 59-44 in the Ohio Conference, Baldwin-Wallace sailed over Carnegie Tech 94-74, and two Ohio entries were demoted to the consolation bracket as the Quantico Marines' annual Christmas tourney opened in Virginia.

At Quantico, Findlay lost to Philadelphia Textile 94-72 while Franklin U. of Columbus, in its most notable cage venture, stayed with Slippery Rock most of the way before sliding to a 76-71 loss.

Reds Compile Highest Mark In Fielding

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds compiled the highest fielding average among National League teams last season, but the Houston Colts and Milwaukee Braves shared individual honors.

The Reds finished with a .979 average followed by the Braves .977 and Colts .976, the official averages disclosed today.

The Colts and Braves each had two individual pace-setters. Bob Aspromonte of Houston topped the third basemen with a .973 mark while Kasko, another Colt, led the shortstops with .978. Aspromonte broke a National League record by making only 11 errors. The previous mark for third basemen was 13 by Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs in 1937.

Second-baseman Frank Bolling and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee also posted the highest average at their positions, Bolling with .985 and Torre with .995.

Other leaders were first-baseman Bill White of St. Louis and outfielder Tony Gonzalez, Philadelphia, each with .996 and pitcher Larry Jackson of the Cubs, who handled 109 chances without an error to set a big league record.

Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh led the second basemen in participating in double plays for a record fifth straight season. He took part in 122 in 1964. He ranked sixth in average, however.

Electric Shock Kills Ex-Tennis Champion

CLEVELAND (AP) — Milton N. Silberman, 48, of South Euclid, a former state scholastic tennis champion, died Wednesday, apparently of electric shock, when he touched the door of a refrigerated milk truck while at work. He was a salesman for the Sealtest Foods Division of the National Dairy Corp.

Police said a co-worker who witnessed the accident told them Silberman had been walking in a wet parking lot shortly before he was killed.

He was a tennis star at Shaw High School in East Cleveland, from which he was graduated in 1934. He won the Ohio Scholastic Singles Championship in 1933 and later was the city amateur champion.

For Ohioans Named On AFL's 2nd Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Four players with Ohio connections are members of the American Football League's All-Star second team.

Named Wednesday to the offensive back-up unit were Kansas City tackle Jim Tyrer, formerly of Newark and Ohio State Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson, Purdue star who hails from Alliance; flanker back Elbert Dubenion, formerly of Bluffton College and Columbus, and fullback Matt Snell of New York, formerly of Ohio State.

Buffalo safety back George Saimes, formerly of Canton, Ohio, was named to the all-star defensive unit.

State Full Of 'Ex's'

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky has seven living former governors. By former Gov. Bert Combs' reckoning, that's more than any other state. "Nowadays," he said, "whenever someone says to me, 'Hello, Governor, how are you?" six people answer, 'Fine, thank you.' "

Cappelletti Named MVP In AFL Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Gino Cappelletti, the decisive factor in many of the Boston Patriots' victories and league leading scorer, has been named the Most Valuable Player in the American Football League by an Associated press panel.

Cappelletti, formerly a defensive back, moved to an end-flanker job. He scored half of Boston's points and led the league with 155 points, a record total, with his place-kicking and pass-catching ability.

With one big winner-take-all game against Buffalo still to be played Sunday for the Eastern Division title, Cappelletti has caught seven touchdown passes and kicked 25 field goals in 38 attempts. The 30-year-old former Minnesota player also kicked 36 conversions and caught a pass for a two-point conversion as permitted in the AFL. He broke his own scoring record of 147, set in 1961.

Cappelletti's most dramatic field goal was kicked against Houston in the last three seconds for a 25-24 victory. In the big game with the Buffalo Bills in which the Pats ended Buffalo's nine-game winning streak, Cappelletti caught three TD passes, added two conversion kicks and also caught the two-point conversion pass in a 36-28 game. Against Denver Oct. 4 he kicked six field goals.

The veteran, one of the original Patriots, has scored 22 touchdowns in his five-year career, booted 92 of 161 field goals and 193 of 197 conversions plus the two-pointer for a grand total of 603 points.

Forgetful Farmer Left Pigs At Fair

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Personnel of the Kansas State Fair found a real forgetful farmer.

Thirty-five pigs bought at an auction remained at the fair several days with no one claiming them. Wallace White, fair secretary, checked records and found the pigs were sold to Leonard Drumright of Harper, Kan.

Drumright, much embarrassed, said he bought a number of pigs at the sale and just forgot the last 35

Navy, Hardin Due To Part Company

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Naval Academy and football Coach Wayne Hardin part company today after a contract dispute which lasted 10 days.

The Academy scheduled an afternoon news conference to make a formal announcement, and indications were the coach would be on hand.

It seemed almost immaterial whether it would be phrased that Hardin was resigning, or was being dismissed from the head coaching post he has held for six years after four as a Navy assistant coach.

It is generally known he did not quit willingly. He has said several times since the dispute became known publicly last weekend that he was satisfied with the five-year contract he signed last Feb. 18 and wanted to continue under it.

The final conference with Academy officials on the issue ended Wednesday night in Baltimore with lawyers present for both sides.

Reports circulated that the coach was extremely dissatisfied with the terms arrived at, but Hardin could not be reached for comment.

Alston Forgets Baseball At His Home In Darrtown

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Baseball is great stuff, but it's nice to "forget it for awhile," manager Walt (Smoky) Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said this week.

Alston made the comment while being interviewed by students in a journalism class at Miami University, whose campus is a few miles from his home at Darrtown, Ohio.

"I can't think of a more quiet place than Darrtown," Alston said.

"My dad and mother live across the street, I've got a couple of riding horses out back, a grandson who likes to ride and hunt with me—and a pool table in the house. My wife's mother and my daughter and her family live with us.

"When the weather is bad, Dad and I tinker around the workshop.

"I find all the relaxation and recreation I need right in Darrtown."

Alston is scheduled to be the star attraction at the opening of "The Q," a new Oxford billiard hall, but he probably won't make it. He told the students spring training probably will start before opening day at The Q.

Even though he insisted he wants to "forget" baseball for a while, the students soon got him back on the subject. The talk was mostly about the trade which, among other things, gave the Dodgers Claude Osteen in return for Frank Howard.

"If Sandy Koufas is all right, Osteen will strengthen the staff anyway," Smoky said. "But if Sandy's arm still bothers him, Osteen will really come in handy. We hated to give up Howard's power but pitching is still a tremendous factor in this game and Osteen has shown himself to be a really good pitcher."

Alston also said he had seen Johnny Podres working out in the Arizona Winter League and that there is "a good chance he will be ready, too."

Howe Finally Breaks 'Ice' With 2 Goals

By The Associated Press

Gordie Howe had just snapped 12 games of scoring frustration with two goals and two assists against the New York Rangers.

The Detroit Red Wings' Mr. Everything smiled when a reporter asked if, during the slump, he thought Father Time might be catching up with him in his 19th National Hockey League season.

"I started to worry about Father Time 10 years ago," Gordie grinned.

Howe's role in Detroit's 7-3 victory over New York Wednesday night had him in a joking mood. Another reporter asked if, when Howe matches strides with Chicago's Bobby Hull, he feels like he's slowing down.

"Name anyone in the league who doesn't feel he's slowing down when he's skating against Hull," Howe replied.

The Boston Bruins know just what Howe meant. Hull, scoring goals at a fantastic clip, whipped two home as the Black Hawks topped Boston 7-5 in Wednesday's other game.

Hull, who had three assists, boosted his league-leading point total to 38 with his 24th and 25th goals of the season. The Hawks have played 26 games and at his present pace, Bobby seems a cinch to break the NHL record of 50 goals in a season that he shares with Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard.

Bread-And-Butter Issue

French Victory Perils U.S. Exports On Grain

BONN, Germany (AP) — Charles de Gaulle's victory this week on the bread-and-butter issue of European farm policy raises a threat to U.S. exports of grain.

Officials are now at work on a system of farm prices, subsidies and import duties that will strengthen the French position as Western Europe's leading supplier. That could elbow out American exports.

The French victory came at two night sessions of the European Common Market Council at Brussels, Belgium, after De Gaulle had threatened to pull out if he did not get his way.

The council finally agreed to set up a single system of grain prices for the six member countries: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

West Germany—and at the last, Italy—resisted. They did not especially oppose French leadership on farm matters but they were trying to get advantages for their own farmers. The other five had been working on West Germany for months to consent to a reduction in its grain prices, the highest in the area.

The decision to yield was made in Bonn last month.

The prices which go into effect in 1967 will still be 30 to 50 per cent higher than today's world prices. That is traditional in Europe, where governments have long kept grain prices high to insure an adequate bread supply in time of war.

Now it's not bread that matters so much — Europeans no longer lean so heavily on what used to be called the staff of life. As they grow more prosperous they consume more beef, veal, pork, butter and milk. European farm experts point out that these are all just a processed form of feed grain — and Europe's growing market for feed grain most interests the American farmer.

Although the German prices will be lowered, the prices the French peasants get are going to be higher. That means more French production, on top of a surplus that has forced the French government to sell what to Red China at bargain rates.

So there will be pressure on the West Germans to buy more French wheat. There's a difficulty at this point: French wheat is the soft variety that makes those delicious long loaves Parisians buy for immediate use. Next day you can drive nails with them. Germans like a bread that can be made into lunch sandwiches the night before, and the German bakers want a loaf that can lie on shelves for a few days and still be salable. To make that they need to mix in hard wheat from overseas.

If the Germans have to buy more French wheat, American experts think, they'll have to feed it to the animals — and that would cut down America's share in the growing feed grain market.

The United States government would have liked European prices to be set a good deal lower, so that there would be no chances of increased French production. But there was never much possibility of that.

American officials can console themselves with the thought that now Western Europe is in a position to plan its production. That means it can work on a worldwide agreement for the grain trade. The United States considers this to be an essential element in the Kennedy Round of talks to lower tariff barriers.

Store Operator Set To Ward Off Trouble

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Liquor store operator Byron Gambulos' establishment was dynamited last Sunday only five days after it was robbed of $4,400.

To ward off further such incidents he has constructed a pillbox with bulletproof windows on top of the building.

Gambulos said Wednesday the pillbox would be manned around the clock. The Oklahoma Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has invited the FBI to help in investigating the explosion which heavily damaged the store.

Damage from the blast was estimated by Gambulos at more than $50,000.

Driver Fined, Jailed

LISBON — Paul H. Wright, 23, of R.D. 5 was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days in the County Jail Wednesday afternoon by County Judge James L. MacDonald for driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol and pleaded not guilty but was found guilty by the court.

4-Year Pact Erases Dock Strike Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — Agreement on a precedent-setting, four-year contract has ended the threat of a weekend dock strike that would have tied up shipping in ports from Maine to Texas.

Negotiators for the International Longshoremen's Association and the New York Shipping Association came to terms Wednesday after five months of disagreement and a walkout halted by presidential intervention.

The ILA conceded one hard-fought point to reach a pact. It bowed to automation and agreed to cut the size of its standard 20-man work gangs down to 17 by 1967.

In return, union negotiators got an 80-cent-an-hour wage package, including a guaranteed annual wage estimated at a minimum $5,856 a year for the average longshoreman.

The package, which includes more fringe benefits, longer vacations and pensions for widows, is expected to cost the shipping industry $94.5 million over the next four years, a spokesman said.

The agreement must be ratified by the 60,000 longshoremen affected. Thomas J. Gleason, ILA president, said voting will begin as soon as machinery can be set up.

2 College Seniors Ohio's Finalists In Scholar Test

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio's finalists in the annual Rhodes Scholar competition are two college seniors—one from Hudson and the other from Marion.

The selection of Daniel W. Christman of Hudson and Bruce R. Kohler of Marion from a total of 35 applicatns was announced Wednesday by the Ohio Rhodes Scholarship Committee.

Christman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan E. Christman, is first in his class at the United States Military academy at West Point.

Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Kohler, is majoring in economics at Harvard University and is manager of the varsity swimming team.

The Ohio representatives will be interviewed in Chicago Saturday with 10 candidates from five other states. Four Rhodes Scholars will be chosen from the group.

Citizenship Speeded By Imminent Birth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — American citizenship had to be conferred with unusual speed Wednesday when a woman told nautralization officials the birth of her baby seemed imminent.

"There may be one more citizen in the room if we don't get her on her way," said naturalization examiner Herbert Levy.

The oath was administered to Patricia Pinto, 22, a native of Panama, and she was whisked out of the courtroom by her husband, Carl, 29, and taken to a hospital.

It turned out to be a false alarm, Mrs. Pinto said later. "I'm sorry to have caused all the excitement."

The baby is due next week.

Youngsters Blamed For Lack Of Santas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — There aren't enough Santa Clauses to go around this year, says Henry J. McCluskey of the Texas Employment Commission. He blames disgruntled youngsters.

"There is a high incidence of children kicking Santas in the shins for not complying with requests registered in prior years," he said.

"The positions of Santa Claus — in such places as department stores and shopping centers — are not being readily taken. We've placed five or six, but we could have placed 15 or 20.

"Some of the potential applicants have said they'd just rather not do this sort of work this year."

Closest Arkansas came to defeat in football during 1964 was the Razorbacks' 14-13 win over Texas.

Collection Of Levy Is Issue

Ohio High Court To Sift Golf Green Fee Tax Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court will look into a decision holding that the Cleveland Metropolitan Park district cannot be required to collect a tax on golf course green fees for Willoughby Hills in Lake County.

The tax is a three per cent excise levy at Manakiki Country Club which was given to the park district in 1944. The community contended in common pleas court that $9,756 was due it on green fees collected in 1961 and 1962.

Common pleas court agreed the money was due but the Seventh District Appeals Court reversed. The appellate court held the tax was legal but said Cleveland park district commissioners could not be required to act as collectors.

In other actions Wednesday, the Supreme Court let stand Lorain County decisions upholding refusal of the Regional Planning Commission to approve the plan of Eaton Subdivision in the Northgate Park area of Avon as filed by Edward Ostrovsky in 1960.

Common pleas court held a zoning ordinance void in 1962 but it was replaced by an emergency ordinance less than two months later.

The court rejected the appeal of Van Wert County Prosecutor Kenneth Koch from the second-degree murder conviction of Mrs. Susan Jane Creech in the 1963 rifle slaying of Robert Lee Grimes.

Lower courts ruled there was evidence only to convict Mrs. Creech of first - degree manslaughter in the case in which she said she mistook the victim for a prowler.

The slaying occurred Sept. 14, 1963, at a farm near Van Wert.

In other action, the court:

Agreed to review refusal of lower courts in Lake County to order changes in a deed given by Carl H. Drenberg to Robert C. Fuller in 1961 for a building lot in Willowick, after Fuller discovered a 36-inch sewer line crossed the property about three feet below the surface.

Refused to disturb a $3,000 award to Harlan W. Wilcox against Eric Shively for injuries received when Shively's car rammed a tree in Warren, Nov. 18, 1958.

Let stand appellate court reversal of a finding by C. William Hayes, special master commissioner, that the City of Steubenville holds title to 75-foot wide strip of land between Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad Co. tracks and the Ohio River low water mark between North Street extension and Logan Street, formerly Factory Street extension. The company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co claimed the land through various transactions.

Let stand refusal of lower courts in Warren County to award truck driver Fletcher V. Hamblin $65,000 asked for back injuries allegedly received in helping remove Marion T. Harper's car from U.S. 22 on Zoar Hill near Morrow after their vehicles collided Dec. 3, 1957.

Bread-And-Butter Issue

French Victory Perils U.S. Exports On Grain

BONN, Germany (AP) — Charles de Gaulle's victory this week on the bread-and-butter issue of European farm policy raises a threat to U.S. exports of grain.

Officials are now at work on a system of farm prices, subsidies and import duties that will strengthen the French position as Western Europe's leading supplier. That could elbow out American exports.

The French victory came at two night sessions of the European Common Market Council at Brussels, Belgium, after De Gaulle had threatened to pull out if he did not get his way.

The council finally agreed to set up a single system of grain prices for the six member countries: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

West Germany—and at the last, Italy—resisted. They did not especially oppose French leadership on farm matters but they were trying to get advantages for their own farmers. The other five had been working on West Germany for months to consent to a reduction in its grain prices, the highest in the area.

The decision to yield was made in Bonn last month.

The prices which go into effect in 1967 will still be 30 to 50 per cent higher than today's world prices. That is traditional in Europe, where governments have long kept grain prices high to insure an adequate bread supply in time of war.

Now it's not bread that matters so much — Europeans no longer lean so heavily on what used to be called the staff of life. As they grow more prosperous they consume more beef, veal, pork, butter and milk. European farm experts point out that these are all just a processed form of feed grain — and Europe's growing market for feed grain most interests the American farmer.

Although the German prices will be lowered, the prices the French peasants get are going to be higher. That means more French production, on top of a surplus that has forced the French government to sell what to Red China at bargain rates.

So there will be pressure on the West Germans to buy more French wheat. There's a difficulty at this point: French wheat is the soft variety that makes those delicious long loaves Parisians buy for immediate use. Next day you can drive nails with them. Germans like a bread that can be made into lunch sandwiches the night before, and the German bakers want a loaf that can lie on shelves for a few days and still be salable. To make that they need to mix in hard wheat from overseas.

If the Germans have to buy more French wheat, American experts think, they'll have to feed it to the animals — and that would cut down America's share in the growing feed grain market.

The United States government would have liked European prices to be set a good deal lower, so that there would be no chances of increased French production. But there was never much possibility of that.

American officials can console themselves with the thought that now Western Europe is in a position to plan its production. That means it can work on a worldwide agreement for the grain trade. The United States considers this to be an essential element in the Kennedy Round of talks to lower tariff barriers.

Store Operator Set To Ward Off Trouble

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Liquor store operator Byron Gambulos' establishment was dynamited last Sunday only five days after it was robbed of $4,400.

To ward off further such incidents he has constructed a pillbox with bulletproof windows on top of the building.

Gambulos said Wednesday the pillbox would be manned around the clock. The Oklahoma Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has invited the FBI to help in investigating the explosion which heavily damaged the store.

Damage from the blast was estimated by Gambulos at more than $50,000.

Driver Fined, Jailed

LISBON — Paul H. Wright, 23, of R.D. 5 was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days in the County Jail Wednesday afternoon by County Judge James L. MacDonald for driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol and pleaded not guilty but was found guilty by the court.

4-Year Pact Erases Dock Strike Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — Agreement on a precedent-setting, four-year contract has ended the threat of a weekend dock strike that would have tied up shipping in ports from Maine to Texas.

Negotiators for the International Longshoremen's Association and the New York Shipping Association came to terms Wednesday after five months of disagreement and a walkout halted by presidential intervention.

The ILA conceded one hard-fought point to reach a pact. It bowed to automation and agreed to cut the size of its standard 20-man work gangs down to 17 by 1967.

In return, union negotiators got an 80-cent-an-hour wage package, including a guaranteed annual wage estimated at a minimum $5,856 a year for the average longshoreman.

The package, which includes more fringe benefits, longer vacations and pensions for widows, is expected to cost the shipping industry $94.5 million over the next four years, a spokesman said.

The agreement must be ratified by the 60,000 longshoremen affected. Thomas J. Gleason, I-LA president, said voting will begin as soon as machinery can be set up.

2 College Seniors Ohio's Finalists In Scholar Test

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio's finalists in the annual Rhodes Scholar competition are two college seniors—one from Hudson and the other from Marion.

The selection of Daniel W. Christman of Hudson and Bruce R. Kohler of Marion from a total of 35 applicatns was announced Wednesday by the Ohio Rhodes Scholarship Committee.

Christman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan E. Christman, is first in his class at the United States Military academy at West Point.

Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Kohler, is majoring in economics at Harvard University and is manager of the varsity swimming team.

The Ohio representatives will be interviewed in Chicago Saturday with 10 candidates from five other states. Four Rhodes Scholars will be chosen from the group.

Citizenship Speeded By Imminent Birth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — American citizenship had to be conferred with unusual speed Wednesday when a woman told nautralization officials the birth of her baby seemed imminent.

"There may be one more citizen in the room if we don't get her on her way," said naturalization examiner Herbert Levy.

The oath was administered to Patricia Pinto, 22, a native of Panama, and she was whisked out of the courtroom by her husband, Carl, 29, and taken to a hospital.

It turned out to be a false alarm, Mrs. Pinto said later. "I'm sorry to have caused all the excitement."

The baby is due next week.

Youngsters Blamed For Lack Of Santas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — There aren't enough Santa Clauses to go around this year, says Henry J. McCluskey of the Texas Employment Commission. He blames disgruntled youngsters.

"There is a high incidence of children kicking Santas in the shins for not complying with requests registered in prior years," he said.

"The positions of Santa Claus — in such places as department stores and shopping centers — are not being readily taken. We've placed five or six, but we could have placed 15 or 20.

"Some of the potential applicants have said they'd just rather not do this sort of work this year."

Closest Arkansas came to defeat in football during 1964 was the Razorbacks' 14-13 win over Texas.

Collection Of Levy Is Issue

Ohio High Court To Sift Golf Green Fee Tax Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court will look into a decision holding that the Cleveland Metropolitan Park district cannot be required to collect a tax on golf course green fees for Willoughby Hills in Lake County.

The tax is a three per cent excise levy at Manakiki Country Club which was given to the park district in 1944. The community contended in common pleas court that $9,756 was due it on green fees collected in 1961 and 1962.

Common pleas court agreed the money was due but the Seventh District Appeals Court reversed. The appellate court held the tax was legal but said Cleveland park district commissioners could not be required to act as collectors.

In other actions Wednesday, the Supreme Court let stand Lorain County decisions upholding refusal of the Regional Planning Commission to approve the plan of Eaton Subdivision in the Northgate Park area of Avon as filed by Edward Ostrovsky in 1960.

Common pleas court held a zoning ordinance void in 1962 but it was replaced by an emergency ordinance less than two months later.

The court rejected the appeal of Van Wert County Prosecutor Kenneth Koch from the second-degree murder conviction of Mrs. Susan Jane Creech in the 1963 rifle slaying of Robert Lee Grimes.

Lower courts ruled there was evidence only to convict Mrs. Creech of first - degree manslaughter in the case in which she said she mistook the victim for a prowler.

The slaying occurred Sept. 14, 1963, at a farm near Van Wert.

In other action, the court:

Agreed to review refusal of lower courts in Lake County to order changes in a deed given by Carl H. Drenberg to Robert C. Fuller in 1961 for a building lot in Willowick, after Fuller discovered a 36-inch sewer line crossed the property about three feet below the surface.

Refused to disturb a $3,000 award to Harlan W. Wilcox against Eric Shively for injuries received when Shively's car rammed a tree in Warren, Nov. 18, 1958.

Let stand appellate court reversal of a finding by C. William Hayes, special master commissioner, that the City of Steubenville holds title to 75-foot wide strip of land between Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad Co. tracks and the Ohio River low water mark between North Street extension and Logan Street, formerly Factory Street extension. The company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co claimed the land through various transactions.

Let stand refusal of lower courts in Warren County to award truck driver Fletcher V. Hamblin $65,000 asked for back injuries allegedly received in helping remove Marion T. Harper's car from U.S. 22 on Zoar Hill near Morrow after their vehicles collided Dec. 3, 1957.

Worst Rain Storm Of Season Hits Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's worst storm of the season struck the islands of Oahu and Kauai Wednesday and a downpour of several inches soaked Christmas shoppers and tourists.

Some streets in Waikiki were flooded, power lines were down on Oahu and streams burst their banks on the neighboring Kauai Island.

Up to an inch of rain each hour was being measured on both islands, the U.S. Weather Bureau said, and more was predicted for today.

Auburn will serve as a special assistant for university relations in the Agency for International Development (AID). Dr. D. J. Guzzetta, vice president and dean of administration, will take over during Auburn's absence.

Getaway Quicker For Rustlers Now

CALGARY (AP) — Cattle rustlers are quicker at getaways than they used to be in the days of the "Old West."

Fred Newcombe, secretary of the Western Stock Growers' Association, complained that: "It's getting like the old bootlegging days" when a rustler was treated so leniently when caught that it paid him to continue rustling.

In one recent rustling case, Newcombe said, a rustler was fined $125 — and allowed to keep $200 worth of stolen beef in his deep freeze.

"You're getting money for nothing, or almost nothing, so you pay your fine, charge it against expenses, and go on."

He complained that a cattleman had no way of "locking his doors" to keep his property intact. "Transportation is so rapid now the rustler can be miles away before the theft is discovered."

Generally, he said, cattle owners think the punishment of rustlers went out with spanking children. "Maybe we should bring it back."

Houston's new Harris County domed stadium will seat 46,000 for baseball and 52,000 for football.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

RAY McSHANE. In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who slept away 1 year ago today, Dec. 17, 1963. He bade none a last farewell, he said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates had opened, a lovely voice said, "Come!" and with farewell unspoken he gently entered home. Our dear one sleeps in silence, we'd not disturb his rest, sad and lonely are the hearts of those who loved him best.
His loving wife and children.

Getaway Quicker For Rustlers Now

CALGARY (AP) — Cattle rustlers are quicker at getaways than they used to be in the days of the "Old West."

Fred Newcombe, secretary of the Western Stock Growers' Association, complained that: "It's getting like the old bootlegging days" when a rustler was treated so leniently when caught that it paid him to continue rustling.

In one recent rustling case, Newcombe said, a rustler was fined $125 — and allowed to keep $200 worth of stolen beef in his deep freeze.

"You're getting money for nothing, or almost nothing, so you pay your fine, charge it against expenses, and go on."

He complained that a cattleman had no way of "locking his doors" to keep his property intact. "Transportation is so rapid now the rustler can be miles away before the theft is discovered."

Generally, he said, cattle owners think the punishment of rustlers went out with spanking children. "Maybe we should bring it back."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

RAY McSHANE. In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who slept away 1 year ago today, Dec. 17, 1963. He bade none a last farewell, he said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates had opened, a lovely voice said, "Come!" and with farewell unspoken he gently entered home. Our dear one sleeps in silence, we'd not disturb his rest, sad and lonely are the hearts of those who loved him best.
His loving wife and children.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELECTRICITY

QUESTION: How does electricity get in clothes?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: All material things are electrical in part. In the circle in an atom, one of the incredibly small particles of which all matter is composed. The two black balls revolving around the nucleus are electrons — and these are the smallest particles of electricity. From this you will see that electricity is built into matter, in clothes and everything else. Laura is demonstrating "static electricity." She has rubbed a comb briskly across a woolen cloth. Some of the electrons in the cloth have been rubbed off and the comb has gained them. Electricity has both positive and negative charges. Since electrons are negatively charged, the comb is now negatively charged too. The bits of paper on the table are uncharged. In electricity, opposites attract each other; a charged thing will attract an uncharged one. So the bits of paper cling to the comb when this is lifted up. Another type of electricity is shown in our picture. When a wire connects two poles in a battery, a movement of certain electrons which can jump from one atom to another is caused, going from the negative pole of the battery to the positive one. This movement gives us an electric current.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Try Laura's experiment. Here's another: inflate a balloon, rub it briskly across your hair. The balloon will now have a negative charge and will stick against the uncharged wall or ceiling, as if my magic.

Sidewalk Santa

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Writer Gets Varied Requests

Associated Press Writer Jim Lamb spent nearly four hours as a sidewalk Santa Wednesday night collecting for the Volunteers of America, a charitable organization. Persons of all ages, but especially children, stopped to visit with Santa. Here is his report.

By JIM LAMB

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — As the only sidewalk Santa in the City of Brotherly Love I got requests as varied as "Please, Santa, I want a little puppy," from a little girl to "Hey, Santa, want a drink?" from a man old enough to know better.

Outfitted with red suit, fake boots, a fake chimney, a nerve-jangling bell and surely the scratchiest beard in Philadelphia, I spent nearly four hours as one of Santa's helpers collecting for the Volunteers of America.

Because of recent staff changes, the Volunteers decided not to put out any Santa's helpers this year. But they readily agreed to lend their Santa paraphernalia.

The kids looked right past the ill-fitting suit, the fake boots and even a slipping beard. This was Santa and they loved him.

The first man to speak hurried past and called, "Hey Santa, bring me a new car." A news dealer, lugging an armful of newspapers, said, "All I want, Santa, is a new girl." Most of the adults smiled and many waved. One man repeated the old gag: "I hear you have three gardens, Santa, so you can hoe, hoe, hoe."

One girl broke away from her parents and came over. "I'm Cynthia. Can I feel your beard? It scratches."

Another girl came over and asked about the reindeer. She talked about her new dress, her baby brother, her loose tooth, and then as her mother tried to pull her away, she leaned over close to say: "Please, Santa, I want a little puppy."

There were some problems. I nearly got cramps in my right arm ringing that bell. Then my left arm got tired.

Every time I switched hands, my beard got tangled in the bell.

Many people gave me as wide a berth as possible, looking the other way purposely. Often, when anyone did stop to drop a coin in the fake chimney, he looked embarrassed.

Total collection for the evening, $9.66 — and one toy dart.

As my feet got colder, the warming sounds of revelry from a nearby tavern sounded inviting. Several men came out and offered a drink. The Volunteers of America has a list of dos and don'ts for Santas, including: "Do not leave your chimney unattended," and "Do not, eat, smoke or drink while on duty."

Then, just before I put away the clanging bell and fake chimney a girl ran over and with a big hug said:

"I love you, Santa."

Medicare Foe Would Back Plan Tied To Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, a major congressional opponent of President Johnson's health care plan, says he is prepared to support a program administered by Social Security but separately financed.

Mills' views amounted to a rough sketch of a program for the aged different from the administration's Social Security plan but compatible enough with it to give every indication that a compromise could be reached.

If this should prove to be the case, the decade-long controversy in Congress over health care for the aged could be settled by mid- 1965. The program is one of Johnson's principal legislative goals.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has been the graveyard of legislation for health care of the aged under Social Security.

"I could vote for a payroll tax to finance part of the cost of health care for the aged," Mills said when he was reached by telephone at his district office in Little Rock, Ark. He said further he has "no objection to Social Security administration of such a program." He added:

"It would be easier for them to do it, and it certainly would be less expensive than setting up a separate agency."

As for the prospects, he said, "I assume the committee would be able to work something out."

He declined to speculate on that benefits might be provided under a plan of the kind he would favor, or what its cost might be.

The Johnson-backed plan is essentially similar to those proposed earlier by President John F. Kennedy and congressional sponsors over the years. It would provide hospital, nursing home and some outpatient service — but not regular doctor care — for the aged.

The cost would be met, for Social Security retirees, by increasing the payroll tax now paid by both employers and employes and now used to provide old age, disability and similar cash benefits.
